

The Secret of Blearth

A Dreamvale Short Story By Jake Chang

CERTIFIED DREAMVALE

Name: Daxian

Age: 15

Species: Asian Alien

Gender: Male

Home Planet: Blearth

Personality Traits: Daxian is an independent boy who's hard working. With a spontaneous and Creative mindset towards his ideas.

Abilities:

- Teleportation
- Invisibility
- Intelligence
- Morph
- Speed

Dream(s): Find a parallel universe and invent things

Fear(s): Everything strict

Quote: "It is not the strength that shows outside, it's the strength within that wins."

Backstory: As someone young and intelligent he felt like things in the world were more than just a fragment in reality but something else, so he dedicated himself to create and find new things in the world. Even help his civilization create peace treaties across the whole galactic world. Eventually leading to Daxian's path, (to create peace with others in the world even in another world parallel to his).

Planet Description: Blearth is like earth but with a different interior. The surroundings are blue with galactic water, along with rings around to seal the deal. With much in hand ,most of all this planet is a blue planet with most life being any color based on the foods and plants they consume.

City/Country Description: Daxian lives in a futuristic city with much to come. Having ideal inventions that humans want, easy homes to live in, and a friendly environment. Along with the life in the city and the world to be able to roam free.

Political Climate / History: During times of old and times of new, Daxian's people have always argued about space since most land was getting over populated by animals. But only monks on Planet Blearth were able to keep peace among animals/beast and the people of Blearth. Most of all, Daxian's people would always argue about this problem, but the sacred monks were always able to stop his people from carnage. In perspective Daxian was the son of passed down monks while his mother was an intelligent being. Which to be more specific, these sacred monks were the first beings on Blearth than the animals. But even with this in mind.

Every 10 years Daxian's people would argue about land and problems with the animals which makes Daxian need to change this for the better, both for the future and the multiverse.

Q: What do you like to do in your free time?

A: For my free time I tend to study everything there has to be in the world. Along with spending my time with fellow monks, friends, and animals.

Q: What is your favorite delicacy to enjoy, unique to your planet?

A: Our best and favorite delicacy would be Blurtendudes. They have an exquisite color, with a mouth watering sensation. So good that it would cost your life savings.

Q: What would you do if you suddenly came upon your planet's equivalent of one million Earth dollars?

A: For our currency, I would give equal amounts to every person, then would solve equality which wouldn't cause any problems or conflict.

My Mom

Q: What's one time you used an ability of yours to get out of a sticky situation?

A: I used my invisibility, speed, and intelligence to get away from my Mom. Which likes to stir up problems about our house, In the end I always end up cleaning after this scary interaction with my mother. But even with this, I wouldn't have a choice either way, I even predicted it.

Chapter One: Call To The Truth

In this chapter Daxian and his group of friends are wandering through the woods of planet Blearth. They eventually walk into the Voldetore's nest, causing tension between one another.

Chapter Two: The Dream Or The Team?

Chapter 2 show cases of a hard decision for Daxian to choose from. Either to choose to find a way to save his friends from a sinkhole or find a way to stop the people of Blearth from arriving into the forest.

Chapter Three: Goodbye Home

With the interaction of the sacred monks Daxian is making a decision on if he should stay with his friends or continue on a journey with the monks.

Chapter Four: The Will To Be Tranquil

Chapter 4 is when Daxian and the group of monks finally meet their destination, which is a temple filled with extraordinary animals. He must learn the ways of the monks to finally be tranquil.

Chapter Five: The Cry Of Peace

This where everything Daxian learned must go work. Daxian must stop the people of Blearth from harming any life inside the forest. That from this cause he must find a peaceful way to stop it than fighting.

Chapter Six: New Adventure recreates

Where everything returns to peace, everything finally over, the war, the arguments, the deaths, once and for all Blearth was finally a peace planet filled with only acceptance to this new environment, while Daxian Adventures to new worlds to solve world Peace.

Chapter seven: New Adventure recreates

Where everything returns to peace, everything finally over, the war, the arguments, the deaths, once and for all Blearth was finally a peace planet filled with only acceptance to this new environment, while Daxian Adventures to new worlds to solve world Peace.

Chapter One: Call To The Truth

Ages before all life, was a miniature speck. This was the beginning of all life, until it met miraculous water from a distant planet Earth. This water shined with a pure look from the sun. Liquid purity, and full of tiny micro-life, the speck would soon go through many transformations before becoming whole.

Lifeforms popping out like corn kernels, until this tiny speck became Blearth, home of mystical beast, full of life blooming from one place to another.

Eventually leading to the future, a gifted child born with capabilities no other child has ever had. Born from a sacred monk, (people who were here before Blearthians) and a Blearhian (who's intelligence goes over any being). During this time, Daxian the gifted child now 3 had experienced conflict between blearthians, the sacred monks, and the animals. Luckily for this interaction, no animal or being was harmed, it was like this interaction was a problematic tradition. Every 10 years there would be the same argument about land on Blearth causing problems. It wasn't the Blearthians fault they were like this, it was their leader.

Chapter One: Call To The Truth

But sooner or later someone in the world would change this.

(Present day), Daxian now 13 is traveling through a wet muddy terrain with a moist texture and the magnificent life traveling around him, this place was the mystical forest.

Daxian traveled with fellow companions, Dingsing, Jukcris, and Elizeabethit, these 4 were traveling for the thought of a new perspective on life. But soon Daxian and his friends would figure out they've just stumbled into a nest, the Voldetore's nest... This would cause the Voldetore to awaken from it's slumber and tail whipped Daxian's friends into a sinkhole.

Running around, Daxian tried to exhaust the Voldetore with his speed, while he ran in his brain he explained "according to Mystical animal analogy it was proved that Voldetores are humongous creatures and weren't great runners" Daxian explained to his doubts. Yet from this Daxian was confused upon how this Voldetore was faster than others, then it clicked into his head, "it was a hybrid of a Cretator".

30 minutes later the Voldetore slowly got tired, so Daxian took the chance to put the Voldetore to asleep. " This should do it, a great hit on the back of the head. "a line it perfectly and "hah." Daxian said grimacingly. "This should do for my plan" Daxian said menacingly.

Chapter Two: The Dream or The Team

As Daxian put's the beast to sleep it would soon be shown that Blearthians were approaching. One by one step by step it would seem as Blearthians were coming in hordes, instead worst than hordes. It would show each and every Blearthian was armed with a weapon of some sort, so he thought.

Blearthians were far advanced beings yet had a flaw, their brains were more intellect than any other being. Blearthians weren't capable of creating deadly weapons like other species, such as laser guns but lacked material.

Most of all locals wouldn't even be carrying any weapons like guns, mostly kitchen household equipment with the small amount of material and space like knives or obsidian swords.

But as they approached, Daxian tried to multitask with similar roars like the Voldetore in different directions. This only postponed them and even frightened many away.

Yet with great intelligence Daxian couldn't cope with trying to help his friends get out from the sink hole and stalling Blearthians.

"To be clear the sink hole was 10 feet deep and was extremely difficult to climb out or jump out due to the wet surrounding and interior." The narrator said.

Chapter Two: The Dream or The Team

Step by step and roar by roar all Daxian could think about was the same interaction ten years ago. With the same conflict between the animals and Blearthians, fire raging ravishly but partly, guns with condensed liquid bullets shooting angrily at trees, people shouting as they charge towards animals.

But this time it was up to Daxian to try to resolve this problem, he went towards this mob, trying to stall each and every person to keep them from entering.

"If one entered all will be pale, meaning dead and colorless" Daxian whispered to himself.

Everything gone due to new construction, end of all lifeforms, and the end of Blearth. Every life form, every single colored plant, every animal, gone just because Daxian couldn't hide the Voldetore and the nest from the locals. The thoughts overwhelmed Daxian as if he was going to have a panic attack, soon showing Daxian multiple thoughts of how it could go. Which one local had to snap Daxian out of this creepy state, it was just him standing still with eyes separated like tall snowy mountains.

"Hey kid snap out of it, hello? "Hey John I think this kid is injured." the local said to another.

As they discussed, things were working and going so well, until one Blearthian spotted the tip tail of the Voldetore. Eventually causing curiosity towards everyone to charge towards the beast, soon causing a distress signal to someone.

Chapter Three: Goodbye Home

With the call of Daxians distress, here comes the saviors. It was only in a matter of time of which the Blearthians slit the tip of the tail of the beast. Daxian got in the way of this trample and attack that brutally injured him. But with all this, he had to give out a big yelp causing many unknown people to come out of the forest.

“Thank you young child for you care upon this beast” the Monk said gracefully.

“I only did what I had to do to save both my friends and this beast” Daxian said in a lower tone than usual. Later knocking out due to the multiple injuries he endured. Then to wake up a few seconds later.

It was shown that the guardians of peace have appeared from this call and were able to help Daxian with his problems. It was told these monks wore robes to both be nature free and show no harm upon any being or even their deity.

Each and every monk had a special ability to be used for certain problem, which would sometimes provoke others and affect them emotionally.

But to be more clear monks were Imperturbable, capable of getting to enlightenment easy.

With Daxian in disbelief that he called the monks and see them, he fell completely flat to the hard dirty ground.

Chapter Three: Goodbye Home

“Daxian, Daxian” his father and mother cried out, turns out the monk he saw was his father. “Wake up Daxian”, as Daxian woken the group of monks approached Daxian, and asked Daxian a difficult question.

“As you know you were blessed with special gifts, and different from others”. “Would you Daxian Bedinglingfonglit like to join us monks”? Daxian was puzzled, confused on why and how he was home so soon. Along with these mysterious people in his house.

“So wait, going off topic, monks were hidden from the Blearthians for the safety of the animals and only came out from a monk’s call or beast’s call”? Eventually they were confused upon why Daxian had asked this, they believed that Daxian was still injured in the head and was affecting his brain functions.

“Listen carefully, do you want to join us monks Daxian?” his father said seriously.

“Yes” Daxian said in a tired voice, As he fell back under his blanket.

“This would mean you must leave this home and call our home your new home” his father said sadly.

“ Alright” as if Daxian was finally straightened up and ready. As he packed and left he said “Goodbye mom” in a sad mood.

“I Hope for your safety Daxian.” As Daxian’s mom chants.

Chapter Four: The Will To Be Tranquil

As this group of monks travel through the sacred forest they stumble across the hardest challenge of all, a thirteen year old asking if their there yet. It was only a matter of time that they could withstand a child with this much energy.

"Are we there yet"? Daxian questioned.

"We're here, keep your voice down we must keep this place a secret" the monk said calmly. Sooner or later the monks started chanting special words "verdinary, supetowa, owwa, open sesame seed". To Daxian's ears they sounded more like words he recognized but only vividly. Once they entered, they traveled towards the great temple of 佛英-(Fótuó yīng)/(Buddha Ying), only those with similar abilities such as monks could enter without any sense of harm.

"What is it that makes this place hidden" Daxian questioned,

"it's a sacred home of everything that lives and dies" Monk Leing Shiong said.

Traveling through the temple was hopeless for Daxian, since Daxian had never lived in such a big home. "For your training you must gather only what should save you and the attacker" "Remember the attacker is injured find something to help him and get his trust."

Chapter Four: The Will To Be Tranquil

As Daxian wait's there with another child similar to his age, he vanishes and appears again with all sorts of items in the temple. So with a similar idea Daxian copies this and goes to find material.

Couple minutes later, "Hey Monk Bieng, I finished what should I do now" Daxian said proudly. Seeing how Daxian was finished with every challenge every monk had to do to learn their powers, made them profound of this young man. So without further a do they made Daxian and a group of monks follow Daxian to the other temples.

"Hopefully I could change this for the good of the entire world" Daxian said worried. Eventually, after 10 years every challenge Daxian did was now finished and was ready for his spirit animal,

"As you know in the beginning you met that Voldetore, well it's offspring is now yours to care and cherish it" Monk Tieng Fioung said amazed at Daxian's growth

"I'll name it Veingsing.". This beautiful moment would soon be stopped from the alert, within peace upon the whole world. Cries of many animals being injured, some being killed and deaths upon Blearthians. Cries from the Dragons 生活(Shēnghuó) Life and 死亡(Sǐwáng) death.

Chapter Five: The Cry Of Peace

With the unbalance force of peace, Daxian must get to work and try to stop this problem without stirring a war. "I Daxian should go and stop this problem before all life could vanquish" Daxian said in a mannered voice.

"But how, there's no possible answer to stop the two sides forever, there must be another way, either to keep the beast away from the Blearthians in a different realm or"... The Monk said worried.

"There is only one way to end this horrible tradition once and for all, to make Blearthians understand the harm without these animals than the harm they put upon them. Filled with scars from all these years". As Daxian got the Voldetore ready, many monks wanted to travel beside him, but Daxian disagreed with them knowing the intentions of Blearthians if Daxian lead his guard down. Couple miles away. Once entering this one place he called once home, he saw blood oozing out of a Mintrcting a being with a pair of 2 wings and 10 legs, "How could Blearthians do this to an animal with no intentions of harming another being"?

"Because our people are savages, anguished with no room for renovations, commanded by their own greed." Bingsing said emotionally.

"Bingsing"? Daxian questioned

"In the flesh still, but badly hurt" he said coughing out blood. Causing Daxian to rush to him before collapsing.

Chapter Five: The Cry Of Peace

"What happened today"? Daxian asked

"It was like any normal day, Jukcris, and Elizeabethit and I were just patrolling around with monks, to soon be attacked by locals for protecting the animals and the forest. It would soon be a disaster with the first shot from general Lincoln, this was the start of a battle that would cause harm towards our planet." As Dinsing signed.

"Well I must follow this attack, where could the battle be?" Daxian Questioned deeply.

"They left to the sacred forest by the Voldetore nest, they exterminated this animal like savages, taking what was worth and leaving the rest to build a river of blood flowing down the pure lake." Dinsing said angry.

"Thank you my friend" as Daxian left the scene, soon enough he met a gruesome surrounding, blood everywhere, corpse from corpse on trees, caves, or even plants. It would be thought that Blearthians wouldn't over power the beast yet some survived without any will to think about themselves than their leader. "Deep down I know there must be a way" Daxian thought.

"Wrap the legs, give them hell, let them die in pain, extinguish them in Flames" each Blearthian said. Daxian understood that this wasn't the doing of his people but who was controlling them.

"Please my people dont harm another being, what will this guarantee towards us, a dead planet, end of all life, the lives of us Superior beings. How is it that we could live with this burden think about your decisions carefully." Daxian said calmly

Chapter 6: The Final decision

Knowing what each Blearthian was capable of, Daxian was prepared for the sneak attack. Looking from side to side, careful in a case of an attack, soon enough the Blearthians strike. "STOP!!! You don't have to do this, why does this matter towards everyone?" Daxian Questioned.

"Because with this proper land and less life on this planet, Blearthians could be seen as superior beings, with our Currency capable of buying us everything we want and need." A local said.

"Don't be mind controlled by wealth, it's worth will soon be worthless if life on the planet dies meaning us too." Daxian said.

As everything calmed down, next thing you know a large beast at a approximate height of 10 meters tall, with a body large enough to crush any being by laying down appeared. With it's savage feet it soon broke down every veichle brought to the forest, the animal's name was Deruchractis.

"Calm yourselves, this animal doesn't pose a threat it's just aggravated from all the harm you've done". Daxian said peacefully while calming the animal. "Let me show you how life will be in the future if this continues.

"What have we done, life on the planet, everything gone from our doing . "It should be that our leader, our governor, our president is killing us, the planet, everything." A local said. "It must be that he's the pupiteir pulling the strings." "Thank you for your help to understand." The locals said as they left to the leader of planet Blearth.

Chapter 7: New Adventure recreates

As everything returned back to normal life on Blearth was now established free from any harm. With the war finally over, everything is now at peace, the forest is going into great care from many across the planet. Many are finally at peace with one another, along with the coexistence between Blearthians and animals. And with new life comes with new things, Daxians group of friends are now leaders of Blearth, sworn protectors of both life and death. While for those who continue this path of fighting, they're transported to a secret place no person knows.

"With my journey finished I can finally explore this infinite galaxy filled with questions no being ever answered." Daxian said proudly. "By now my friends we must cross paths and remember our time together."

"To be honest though you weren't here often, you were on that spiritual journey and mission to control your powers, with the ability to understand animals and look like one." Elizebeth said confused.

"I see your point but this is our last moments together and I hope for the best of everyone, but tell Dingsing goodbye for me. For that he isn't here at the moment." Daxian said in a more expressive tone. "I hope you all well and see you soon one day."

Soon enough Daxian has left on his journey to find ways to show peace and stop and aggression upon any being.

The Secret Chapter: Home

1,000,000 years later, "It's good to be back at home, everything's changed, i'm now home and want to see my friends and family again." Daxian said sadly knowing everyone he loved is either old and far away or passed to great Muasong. The place with heavenly wisdom, vivid pink clouds passing one by one, orange leaves falling as fruit ripens, water so pure it shines beautifully, in this place called home from everyone anywhere. "I wish everyone could see me now, with my adventure over I can finally see my friends and family."

"Hey grandpa how come we came to this planet?" Daxina questioned with a curious mind. "Couldn't we go to earth where everything is green and blue, full of those people with different skin tones. Or that planet with Sky trees."

"Well Daxina this planet has more history than you think." Daxian said joyfully that someone wants to hear his story.

"Come on dad, she's still young wait till she's older then you can tell her." " But dad it's great to be back home with our ancestors, hopefully we get to see Monks and those mythical beast your always talking about." Veingsing said gladly.

"Hopefully" Daxian said.

Daxian was a being born from a higher being, the monks, more than anyone has been to. It was told that Daxian passed away at age 1,000,005 his name would be remembered for the things he did in the whole universe, never achieving his dream.

