An Interview by Trast

Q: What would I do if your have one body

A: I would still be a rare Marshmello since normal Marshmallows has no body's just a head and a arm and a feet. But would still have an extra life for my last body.

Q: What are the other faces for

A: The other faces are for designs. Also they are from scars. And they scare people from coming close to me since who would be scared of 3 bodys looking like heads coming towards you.

Q: Why don't you have knees?

A: I don't have knees because I too tall to have knees. And so I don't fall on the ground.

Chapter One: Trast and Lardan

One day Lordan was walking around with Trast they were talking about what they were so happy to have and then when Trast talked about his 3 bodys Lardan told him to be quiet about that since there were dangerous Boredans who are after people who has 3 bodys since it grants them the power to be comeback to life 3 times. It's also a rare chance of having 3 bodys since it gives you the ability to die and come back to life, and that's the reason why I make you wear such a long shirt. When Trast leads Lardan back to his house he finds a couple of Boredans who were trying to break into someone's house he goes over and fight 3 of them with his wooden sword and the other 5 runs off into there hideout. After, Trast ran towards the house owner and asked him if he was safe and he was. The owner was so pleased for Trast saving his house and him, the civilian told Trast,

" Thank you for saving my house and me as for a gift for your gesture I will give you a map if you want to go find the treasure." She hands her a map to find the treasure. When he went back home he see's Lardan sitting on the couch and eating blips. Trast walks over to him and handed him the map he received from a civilian that he got from him. Trast talks,

" by chance do you know what this map is for like have you ever seen it since your pretty old now no offense." Lordan replies.

" Oh yes I've seen one of these maps before but no one would ever try to go there since of how hot it is and some people even die from the heat because they get melted and turn into smores." Trast was a bit concern but wanted to know what was inside of the treasure. After a couple months of getting a bit of money he went to the market to go buy some goods. He finds this paper that hold water inside. He asks to see it but when he poured the water it magically came back but it wasn't the same water. He decides to buy it since it was for only 20 goys coin and it holds over 20 billion tons of water that is who knows where. He goes back home and shows his purchase to Lardan and he talks about the trip to go find the treasure. Lardan wasnt sure if he was gonna go since it was too hot but then when Trast shows him the water he decides to go. But, he says,

" I'm only coming if we go next week since this week im busy doing my work." Trast replies,
"Fine I guess we will go next week."

Chapter Two: Facing the troublemakers

They were in the training house training Trast to be a better version of who he was already. But, all of the sudden a noise that sounded like boom came from the front entrance of the house. Lardan running inside running straight for the window looking outside and seeing about 6 to 10 Boeredans outside of their house.

After they both seeing the Boredans they run outside to try to face them off and stop them from terrorising the city. With Trasts wooden sword that he got from Master Lordan, he slashes about 4 of them while Master Lardan faces off 6 with his bare fists and knocks them out cold.

They both go back into training since Trast wasn't ready enough if more comes his way. While Lordan was teach Trast abilities Trast asks a question,

"What's so cool about this planet and why is there so many Boreadans and who is in control of them?" Lordan answers,

" This planet was suppose to be a relaxing planet for your kind but when Glorelax came into this world the planet has changed into a war planet, with people fighting with the Boredans and some people even fleeing to a different world, and for your last question Glorelax is the person in control of all the Boredans."

They both continues the training while Trast was exhausted but, he pressured threw it with some sweat. After they were done they went to go to the shower to cool them down and feel more relaxed. When they were done they went to sleep and was relaxed until the next day.

On the next day Trast wakes up a little bit confused of where Master Lordan is. He walks down stairs and see Master Lordan down there on the ground tired and hurt. He looked around and found some medicines and he cured him but when he looked around the house he sees window shatters and some Boredans in the fire pit. He asks Master Lordan,

" What happen here and how did you get hurt." Lordan replies,

" Some Boredans came here last night to try to rob us but luckily I heard them and got up to defend us and our precious goods but Im fine." He takes him back to sleep so tommrow they can wake up and go find the treasure.

Chapter Three: The Quest

When Lardan and Trast waked up they wondered of to the bathroom and got ready, Trast grabs the paper bucket with his wooden sword. They followed the map and walked in some circles since the map was a bit to complex. When they made it to the mountain it started getting really hot but luckily he has the paper bucket to cool him down with the water, Lardan was fine since he is immunise to the heat and is very athletic. They walked up and up while Trast had to stop for a couple of time since it was to hot for him and had to water himself.

He asks Lardan, "Why is this mountain so hot?"

Ladan replies, "Because this is a volcano and is the most dangerous volcano," they walked up and up until they found a door. They opened the door and walked inside seeing some unordinary stuff in here. Trast walks up to a wood chest that's very dusty and he opened it finding a key and a safe. He grabbed the safe and the key and walked towards

Lardan he ask, " What do you think this is?"

Lardan replies, "Let me see that thing," He grabbed the key and opens the safe and finds a small door with stone around it but with thousands of them in a bag. He hands it to Trast.

Trast says, " What is this a piece of junk?" He throws the little door and all of a sudden the door magically went big. He opens the door and finds his home he walked into the door and it teleported him home he stepped back in the door and tell Lardan to come. They both stepped into the door and gets teleported into their home. They had a rough day so they both decided to go to sleep and talk tomorrow when its day time. When they both waked up they both talked about what happened yesterday while they walked to the bathroom,

When they were done Lardan told Trast, " This was one of Glorellock treasure,"

Trast askes, " How do you know if it was?"

Lardan replies, " I used to work for Glorellock until I betrayed them because of what they did to you people and I didn't agree with what they were doing," Trast was a bit stunned and confused. But, Trast just walked off like he didn't hear what Lardan said. He walked outside and took a lap around the building why would Lardan betray his own kind and why would he want to work with me out of anyone else I guess i'm just lucky.

Chapter Three: The quest

He walked back home and Lardan asked Trast that would he want to go and find the poisonous sword. Trast thinks about it over and over and finally decided to go do it.

Chapter Four: Fetching The sword

The next day they get ready and heads towards the map the Lardan advice them to follow the map. They followed the map until the stopped at the red dot. They look everywhere until they found a cave under a mountain. They enter it finding some types of trails toward another room that is lock. They go on forward and move until they see a old dirty, dusty, and weby paper in the ground. They pick the paper up and examines it they read to get the door open you have to find these things it's in here in this room but scattered apart good luck finding it. They find 1 out of the 5 pieces they keep searching and eventually finds 2 more. They search and search even more but couldn't find anything else they see a shiny thing in the bathroom in the water pit. Trast feeling disgust he told Lardan,

"Lardan can you please pick this shiny thing in the toilet water for me?" Lardan replies

"Why can't you do it yourself and pick it up i'm a bit too old to crouch down there to get it," Trast finally picks the shiny thing up and cleaned it and putted it on the pedestal. They search for the last one and they find a smaller cave they crawl into it getting smaller and smaller eventually Trast get stuck but sees a very shiny green stone he crawls a bit deeper and getting more stuck he grabbed the shiny green stone and threw one of his teledoor and opened a portal back to the original cave. When they put all the 5 things on one of the each pedestal the door opened up and allowed them into the secret room with the sword. They eventually see the sword and Trast went to go pick it up. When he picked it up he felt ready to go defeat Glorelock and his minions he tells Lardan that he feels ready and he throws a teledoor and teleport them back home to rest.

While Lardan was resting Trast walks around thinking to himself and wondering if he can beat Glorelock or not. He walks back home and goes to the training room. He uses his sword and it cuts threw over a hundred pieces of wood. With his last slash and his last effort he accidentally sends out mini swords towards the testing dummy. He falls asleep in the training room while holding his sword.

Chapter Five: Finding Glorelock

They got ready with all the material that they will need. They walk up the mountain finding some Boredans patrolling the mountain. Lardan and Trast takes them out without them alerting anyone, They walk up some more and find a mysterious cave they went inside of it which led them into a bigger cave. They see tons of Boredans and a stone door that looks like a vault. Trast asked a question,

"Do you think Glorelock could be inside of that vault?" Lardan replies,

"It's a possible chance that she could be in there," they walk close up to the vault. They try to peek inside but the vault was sealed shut the opening not even a slight peak. They see some Boredans coming there way with no idea of what to do they ran to the biggest object they could find and hid behind it. After, they were almost caught they continued their journey. They find a clue on a sign that says "Must be a top 3 job to enter." When they read it they had a plan wait for it to be night time and kidnap one of the top 3 job. They discuss who to get since they don't know who was in the top 3 job. Until they heard a Boredan bragging about how he was now promoted into the top 1 job. They followed that guy secretly while not letting anyone find them until it was night time. The Boredan goes into his home and takes a nap while Trast breaks in and kidnaps him and puts his face in front of the face scanner.

The bank opens up but to there surprise Glorelock wasn't there. They look around trying to find something useful until they find a string Trast tries to warn Lardan,

"Don't step on the string," but on accident Lardan tripped on the string. Trast him up and the cave starts going into a lock down. They both try running out of the vault but then Glorelock jumps out of nowhere and attacks them from behind. Trast doges the blow that Glorelock tries to hit him with but Lardan gets hit Lardan tells trast to run. Trast runs while Lardan tries fighting back Trast turns around seeing Lardan badly wounded. He turns back to fight Glorelock but he was hit with a blow that knocked him out and he lost one of his body he retellerated with his sword hitting his leg and poisoning his leg. Glorelock screams,

"Who are upi and what are you doing in here," Trast replies,

"I'm here to kill you and make this world peaceful again," after saying that he sends out mini swords and attacks him. After Glorelock getting injured badly he decides to surrender. Trast walks up to Lardan and pour water in his mouth. After washing Lardan wounds he used one of his teledoor and teleported them into the hospital so as Glorelock. After a few surgery on Lardan the doctor talked in a low voice,

"Lardan is dead,"

Chapter Five: Finding Glorelock

Trasst looks in shock. He feels terrible and knew that he shouldn't have ran away but now it's to late. Trast takes Glorelock to a maximum prison filled with gaurds.

Chapter Six: Awardation

Trast gets awarded as a hero for protecting the world from Glorellock. Trast explained how they manage to capture Glorellock and who helped them along his journey. Trast replies,

"I would like to thank someone for helping me protect the world from Glorellock, his name was Lardan a Boredan but a kind one who helped trained me for that fight and who sacrificed his life for mine when we got attack unexpectedly in honor of him. I will like to give him all the metal's and give him half the credits of why Glorellock was stopped," with everyone cheering him on Trast cried alone while the crowd clapped. They bury Lardan in a special place in honour of him helping Trast catch Glorellock. He puts all the award metals except one into Lardan's carriage. Trast buries him in the grave. He walks home but this time on a different he says to himself,

'Sometimes going a different way is a way of a new journey," he walks around until he gets home. He takes all of Lardan's stuff and gives it to the poor. He walks back home finding himself sleepy and dizzy so he decides to take a nap. While he was dreaming he has a dream about Lardan coming back to him and telling him,

"I am proud of what you accomplish in over these years I am also proud of training you as my A Train student and I hope you have a nice life," after he has the dream he wakes up thinking to himself How did I dream of Lardan he must be watching on me. He walks back to where Lardan was bury and sees a Marshmallow guy he talks to him and gets to know him a bit and they walked to Lardan grave and planted flowers. Trast introduces Mike to his friend Lardan about what he did and how this ended up to him. Mike was pretty amused and cheered Trast up with a gift of a Monkey. After, Trast takes Mike home and Trast goes home with the monkey. He chats with the monkey and calls it Warlax a named after Lardan his master.
