

CERTIFIED DREAMVALE

PLASMA

A DREAMVALE SHORT STORY BY LYDIA XIONG

Name: Daquaviantaequin (Daquaviantae)

Age: 21

Species: Creature of my own

Gender: Male

Home Planet: Elysium Prime

Personality Traits

Daquaviantaequin is a silly king. He may do too much and isolate himself but he is very talkative and shy, plus mysterious. He is brave, mighty, uptight, down for a fight, with his eerie humor, observing every sound around him.

Abilities

- Cross eye hypothesis
- Fluff shield
- Sacred ears

Dream(s)

Invisible friends,, finding his species,
finding his parents

Fear(s)

Abandonment, his kind extinct, isolation, forgotten, change, garbage

Quote:

- " Aye hold the bag aye I am getting litty forreal forreal. "
- " I may look small but I destroy. "

Backstory: Daquaviantaequin growing with only his Mom who adopted him. They have a nice son-mother ship. He can't find his biological parents, completely abandoned by his parents. Mother tells him the world is cruel and sick. She takes large amount his blood every other day to make sure he is healthy. He has been on a planet known as Elysium Prime told by the other creatures on his planet. He doesn't know his species as he feels alone as his mom and rest of the creatures look nothing like him. He wonders about his parents everyday and tries to find out what he is but after 21 years he gives up. His mom rarely lets him leave the house without her. He still hopes to find out his species. One day Mother goes on a trip and he is bored. He snoops around Mothers room and discovers something he has never come across. He feels a way he's never felt before. He knows its bad but he leaves the tower and tries to get back home before Mother does

Inventory

Acorn

Daquaviantae uses the acorn as a recorder and a pen/pocket knife for his own safety as he is mostly alone.

Teddy bear

This teddy bear he created that he found in a dumpster he put a secret camera in the bear again for his own safety and maybe, just maybe will capture his parents on footage.

Baby blanket

His blanket he has had since he was wrapped in when he was found. His comfort and the only true love besides his he feels while it's wrapped around him.

Companion

A Deformed Bird Mix hybrid

This bird that Daquaviantae met in a dangerous situation. Goes with him on his journey while they both follow their own dreams. Eventually gains his trust and visits every so often.

Home Planet: Elysium Prime,

Elysium Prime, where unusual and unique ideas are celebrated, rudeness is a core value.

Although it is very spooky and they mostly live in the dark. It is a community that values inclusivity, artistic expression, and a sense of belonging. Overall, it's a chill planet with lost mysteries.

Hometown: Daecrent Town

Daecrent town, spooky vibe, eerie old buildings, mysterious legends, and a bit of a ghostly atmosphere. The community is a small and tight, with everyone knowing each other's stories and secrets. It's very dirty and unsanitary. It could feel a bit deserted at times but who knows, maybe there's a hidden warmth beneath the spooky surface! There is also a castle ruled by the royal wealthy who barley come outside for no one knows why.

Political Climate / History: On Elysium Prime, it is always perfect weather. Even tho its cold. Not to cold and not to hot. Very mysterious and traditional, With a wide community. People always being sick and trash everywhere.. It's filled with eerie events and old legends, influencing its cautious and secretive nature. The neighbors do not get along pretty well. Very windy. They are very serious about rudeness tho and a lot of disrespect in the town.

An Interview by Yuri Zenoko

Q: What do you like to do in your free time daquaviantaequin?

A: Hmm, this is a hard one. I love to do many stuff but out of everything I would choose to collect nuts!

Q: Who are some of your best friends and how did you meet them?

A: Ah! I wouldn't say unfortunately but I only have one friend since growing up. He offered me food on the street. I'm not really one to start a conversation first. Mother never lets me go out. Heh!..

Q: And last but not least, what is the MOST embarrassing thing that has happened to you?

A: Man! I've never had someone this curious about me! I was in public and I thought someone was waving at me but they were waving at someone else.

Chapter One: New findings

Daquaviantaequin is bored of doing the same thing everyday and discovers books under his mothers bed. Mother taught him how to read but he finds something out that it brings him many emotions he has never felt before.

Chapter Two: Curiosity

Always wanting to go farther beyond the woods and to the popular city. Tho / knows his mother would be very upset. His curiosity gets the best of him and for the first time he doesn't follow his mothers rules.

Chapter Three: New friend

While he's on his adventure alone to complete his dream to see the city an occurrence happens he needs help. He gets rescued by someone he calls his new friend and they go through the adventure together.

Chapter Four: The truth

Mother finds out he left. She grows of anger, needs a plan to get daquaviantaequin back.

Chapter Five: Villian

Daquaviantaequin is in trouble. There's only one person who can save him..

Chapter Six: New beginnings

The truth came out and situations come down. The city becomes a better community and now, finally Daquaviantaequin sees what life really is about.

Chapter One: New Findings

On a regular day, same routine everyday for Daquaviantaequin. He is normally home alone while his mother goes on trips to get food and nice things for Daquaviantae to get creative with knowing she doesn't let him out the house without her. Mother tells Daquaviantae how the world is sick, unhealthy, cruel and dying. That's why he can't go outside by himself and without his mask. Everyday Mother has to take out Daquaviantaes blood to check if he is healthy.

"Why don't I have the same fur color as you mom?" Daquaviantae says. At 7 years old when Daquaviantae was old enough, Mother decided to tell him how she found him abandoned and wrapped in a little blanket in an alleyway in Daecrent town. Mother kept the blanket and it's the last thing Daquaviantae will ever have of his parents. He feels upset about the blanket because of the situation but it's the thing that comforts him the most when he's sad. He feels a close connection to it. Daecrent town has always been a rude and scary environment. With only respect to the Royal in the Daecrent Castle. Whenever they go somewhere public Mother and Daquviantae wear these capes and masks to hide their identities. Looking nothing like his parents, whenever Mother went out with him into town, he realized that there were no creatures that looked like him. He felt even more alone. But he knows if Mother is with him she will always protect him.

He understands why he can't go outside without Mother. He used to complain but he knows the dangers being told stories while growing up by Mother. Later in the day at home the sun was setting and Daquaviate was sitting in bed waiting for Mother to tuck him in.

Chapter One: New Findings II

"MOM!!," He called out, But no one responded. Weird, he thought, as Mother is usually always on time. He hears banging in the attic. Growing up he was never allowed in the attic and mother goes up there from time to time. He hears the banging getting louder and louder and more intense. He starts to worry for Mother. He felt it was odd because Mother usually never takes that long up there. . He checked all the other rooms and couldn't find Mother. He knows he's not allowed up there but he jumped for the rope to pull the ladder down to go check what's going on. The banging stopped once the ladder hit the floor.

"Son, please don't come up here." Mother said in a serious shaky voice.

Daquaviantae felt worried but he never has once disobeyed Mother. He went back to his bed and tucked himself in. He's bored and looks in mothers room and finds books under Mothers bed. He feels a way he has never felt before when he finds a book about life

Chapter Two: Curiosity

Daquaviantae steals the book and puts it in his pillowcase on the bottom. Mother eventually came to tuck him in bed and kiss his forehead.

"You know I love you." Mother says in a soft voice.

"I know, I love you too." Daquaviantaequin says while looking at Mother in the eyes.

Mother decided to go somewhere for the tower's needs.

"Son, i'll be back in 3 days. You know what I said.. No leaving the Tower without me."

Already being alone most of the time the thought of never finding his real parents or friends made him feel a wave of sadness. He feels that deep down he is missing a part of his heart.

"Alright, you know i'm already used to you being gone for a long amount of time, i'll be fine." Daquaviantaequin sighs.

Mother smiles and ruffles his fur and ears "I will be back in three days. Now go to bed." Mother reassures.

Daquaviantaequin smiles and turns the other way while waiting to hear the footsteps of his mom leave the room. When the door closes. He jumped out of bed and grabbed the book of life. He reads and reads and reads and finishes half the book till the sun slowly rises. He went to sleep very late and finally decided to go to bed. A little later in the morning while he's laying in bed thinking about what he read, while closing his eyes he hears Mother check on him with the ruffles of her bags to go on the trip. Daquaviantae waits for her to leave. But, when she left, his sacred ears hears the same banging in the attic.

Chapter Two: Curiosity II

Knowing Mother left he felt frightened but maybe mother knew what it was. Maybe it was safe. Too much is on his mind. He knows to follow his mother's rules but he couldn't help to know what was up in that attic. He slowly pulled the rope and not thinking twice he started climbing the ladder. He noticed he needs a key to get in the attic. He searches in Mother's room and tries to find the key everywhere, the drawers, closet, under the bed. He found even more books under the bed that mother has never introduced to him. It was cooking and baking recipes and child books. These were not the books that Mother ever showed to him. He read a book and found out there were more different creatures out there than just him and Mother. He's only seen Mother's species and never his. He tries to find any creatures that look like him in the book but can't seem to find anything. He hears the banging in the attic get louder and eventually stopped. He had no luck finding the key and just gave up. Maybe he will just ask Mother when she gets home. He decides to keep reading the books. He reads and reads and reads and for the next 2 days he had finished 4 long books. He knows Mother is coming back tomorrow. He reads about friends, love, and happy people with dreams and accomplishments.

"What is this feeling?" he asks himself.

Daquaviantae's dream was to go outside and make friends. Find someone who looks like him and knows what he is. He was done not having any friends and not being able to socialize. He cleans the whole house thinking about those books and nature.

"Mother won't be mad if I'm gone for a little bit. I'll get home before she does," Daquaviantae thinks.

He gets a backpack from Mother's closet and starts to pack an outfit and necessities. He leaves during the afternoon scared but excited. Ready for new adventures.

Chapter Three: Curiosity III

He makes it out of the tower. He feels his heart pumping.

"Should I?" he repeats to himself.

"Here I go.." he mutters.

He jumps down the tower using his fluff shield protecting his little body. He double checks everything in the bag to make sure he has everything especially his baby blanket, mask, and weapon and leaves the towers presence going far deep deep into the woods towards the city..

It starts to get a little dim out becoming darker. He remembers going nut hunting with Mother and he is doing it alone at this time. He set out on the adventure alone, determined to make his dream come true. As he wandered through the dense forest that bordered the city, he admired at the wonders around him. But just as he was about to reach the city limits, he found himself caught in a hunter's trap. A bag closed around him and pulls him upward, hanging from a tree. Struggling and soaring for help, Daquavniantae's heart sank, thinking his dream was over.

"Is this how I die? No I may look small but I destroy." Daquaviantae states.

He kicks and kicks and tries to break free from the trap feeling suffocated in the bag he was in.

Chapter Three: New friend II

Just when all hope seemed lost he hears flapping with his sacred ears. A kind, strange bird like creature he had never seen before, appeared. He could see it thorough the bag trap. The bird couldn't speak, only chirped at him, but approached in a kind matter. Its black eyes staring back at Daquaviantae seemed soothing. He was aware of the sicknesses going around tho so he tried not to get to close. The bird carefully pulled the string from the trap and freed Daquaviantae, they quickly became friends. Daquaviantae dropped from the bag onto the grass. With the bird by his side, Daquaviantae felt a newfound sense of courage and excitement. The bird starts to write something on the tree next to them. "Kathaetri."

"Oh Kathaetri, I see, that's your name," Daquaviantae stutters.

Kathaetri flies in 2 circles, trying to introduce Daquaviantae in a setting matter. Kathaetri makes a, "follow me" motion and together, discovering hidden gems and making memories while heading towards the city's entrance. They don't know which path to take but a kind creature helps them follow the correct path. Daquaviantae's trip was no longer just visiting the city but it was about sharing the adventure with his new friend, making it even more exciting then he had ever imagined.

Chapter Three: New friend III

Mother arrived home. She called Daquaviantaes name,
"Daquaviantae! I got your favorite fruits!" Mother shouted.

No response.

"Odd, he's probably sleeping." Mother assumes.

The air in the tower crackled with a tension thicker than any storm cloud as she checks his room. He wasn't in bed. Not in the living room. Not in the bathroom. Nowhere in the tower. Mother stood frozen in distraught. Her anger erupted, she grabbed a knives from a secret safe case and headed out to the only place she would think Daquaviantae would go or be brought to. When she makes it in the city making sure she's covered up well. It didn't take long before she spotted Daquaviantae and his new friend. She doesn't want Daquaviantae to have friends. She couldn't hold herself back anymore. She needs Daquaviantae.

Daquaviantae and Kathaetri are looking at the paintings on the castle.

"That creature kind of looks like me.." Daquaviantae thinks.

While looking at the old missing poster of the lost prince of the castle from years ago.

"If I get sick Mother is gonna kill me." Daquaviantae says to Kathaetri. They start walking downtown. Mother follows them and immediately confronts Daquaviantae her anger erupted. It wasn't the yelling, or the harsh words that stung the most. It was the look in her eyes. A cold emptiness Daquaviantae has never seen out of Mother before. She's never leashed out like this before on him.

Chapter Four: New friend IIII

He remembered just hours earlier, laughing with his new friend in the city, feeling a sense of belonging he'd never known. That joy was just becoming a memory now, replaced by the reality of Mothers rage and words.

"YOU WILL NEVER FIND FRIENDS, ONLY I CAN PROTECT YOU, YOU'LL REGRET THIS." Mother infuriated.

"I've never seen Mother this angry..." Daquaviantae thinks. Mother grabs Daquaviantaes paw and drags him.

"We're going back home, pretend none of this happened. I'm protecting you from a truth that would destroy you." Mother says with her voice dropping into a low menacing whisper.

"You think you're so clever, sneaking around, disobeying me, digging up a fairytale of your own? You have no idea what you can unleash. At Least let me take some of your blood so I can check if you're sick." Mother pierced.

But something shifted in Daquaviantae. Fear and losing had always been his contrast. But he was feeling something different.

"No! He shouted, his voice trembling but firm.

"I'm Done being protected! I want to see the world, and get to make my own decisions. I'm 22 mother! You need more faith in me." He poured his heart out. He spoke out of the kindness he found, the hope he'd discover, the dreams he wanted to pursue.

"The world isn't as cruel as you say it is! I deserve to find out for myself!" Daquaviantae shouts.

Chapter Four: The truth III

Mother stared at him, her eyes only showing in the mask. Showing disbelief and hurt. A tear escaped her eye, tracing a lonely path down her cheek.

"You'll regret this, Daquaviantaequin." she whispered, her voice filled with a chilling certainty.

Then she walked off with her hood on and the betrayal face she felt under her mask. Daquaviantae and kateatri watched her walk off heading back into the wood area. Katetri put his wing on Daquaviantaes shoulder to comfort him. Daquaviantae sighed. Then they continued to explore.

"Let's find something to do!." Daquaviantae exclaimed. They looked around the city to check. On a poster they saw one that was called, (Comedy show! Come watch only today around 5:00PM!) Daquaviantae had never heard about a comedy show. He read more about it seeing that people say it's very fun to go to and he was surprised because everyone downtown never was smiling or laughing. Maybe at this place he could find more friends!

"Have you ever been to a comedy show before Kathaetri?" Daquaviantae asks. Kathaetri shook his head saying yes and he seemed excited for it. It's a pretty surprising organization knowing that the town looks dead and is kinda trashed.

Chapter Four: The truth III

While they were heading to the Comedy show location a few minutes away from where they were downtown Daquaviantae starts a conversation.

"Mother never lets me out of the house without her and how i've always felt lonely and felt like I was missing something till I finally got out and met you. Mother takes some of my blood every other day to check if i'm sick but I rarely even leave the house. Do you get sick often out here?" Daquaviantae yaps Kathaetri shakes his head making a worried disturbed face. He chirps knowing no one out where's masks and the town is completely healthy.

"I wish you I could understand you. But it's already nice having someone listening to me." Daquaviantae says while walking.

"I'm pretty sure me and Mothers relationship is ruined. I don't want to go back.. Or do I.. She just wants to protect me afterall. She did save me because I got abandoned by my real parents." Daquaviantae states.

Katheaetri stops in their tracks and realizes the blanket Daquaviantaequin has been holding this whole time, his baby blanket. Katheaetri gives a sign for him to wait and flies away somewhere while Daquaviantae is just standing in the woods.

Chapter Four: The truth III

Kathaetri makes it back and shows a little photograph from the newspaper of the missing prince from years ago. The picture was the baby prince sleeping wrapped up in a small blanket that looked just like Daquaviantae in his arms..

A text next to the photo said, "Last picture taken of Prince Selden the night before Selden and Queen Quin got stolen and taken from the royal palace."

Kathaetri tilted his head looking at the baby. Looking back and forth to Daquaviantae and back at the baby Prince Selden. Daquaviantae didn't know what to think.. He stared at the sleeping baby. He realized they do look similar.

"What if... No Daquaviantae Mother wouldn't do such thing." Daquaviantae thinks.

Daquaviantae wraps the photo in his blanket and they make it to the comedian show and figure out its in a small part in the woods. It was becoming dim and they saw torches and lights blinding them by the opening.

"Is this gonna be outdoors?" Daquaviantae questions the host.

"Yes it is, we're almost done setting up." Host states.

Daquaviantae had never seen so much creatures sitting together.

"Is this what family and happiness feels like?" Daquaviantae asks himself.

Kathaetri and Daquaviantae find chairs set up in a circle area where its surrounding the props.

"I'm so excited!" Daquaviantae exclaims.

Kathaetri tho being a bird had many bird friends. He signaled to Daquaviantae that he would be right back because he's gonna go find his bird friends. Daquaviantae didn't mind. He just sat there and waited.

Chapter Four: The truth III

Soon he realized he had to use the bathroom and he gets up and heads on out to do his business in the forest. When he was done he starts walking back to the area. While he's walking back he hears leaves crunching behind him. Everytime he looked back it stopped but everytime he moved he hears it again. Little did he know he was being followed. He was all alone and no one and noone was near him.. Then he finds himself not being able to breathe being suffocated from behind by someone. He tried to escape but whoever had him was strong. All things goes black in his vision. He wakes up to being chained.?

"Where am I.... My head hurts.." Daquaviantae groans.

He looks around and sees someone else next to him.. A creature that had the same color fur as him.. She was also chained up.. He realized it was a female creature. He examined closer of the material of the room and he realized it was the same bricks as the Tower at home... He doesn't recognize the room tho. He's never been this room. He's not sure if the women is even still alive. He tries to be quiet then he hears a thud coming from below. Then all of a sudden he sees a part of the carpet they were on opening. Daquaviantae soon realized they were in the attic of the tower... Mother came up from the ladder..

"Sorry you had to find out this way, Selden. I need to make sure you and your real mother don't get hurt or ill or I could die." Mother confessed. If daquaviantae or his real mother ever got cut or sick then the power to keep them healthy forever would fade immediately. Including ones with blood in them.

Chapter Five: Villain

Turns out Mother was the one who stole Daquaviantae from the palace and eventually, he finds out his actual mom was locked up in the attic this entire time.. He feels like he just got stabbed in his heart. Him and "Mother" stare at each other.

"Yes, that's your real Mother.. I need to stay healthy and by drinking you and your moms royal blood it heals me from the sickness going around.... Son, i'll be able to live longer if you stay with me and don't go out anymore. Your mom never loved you!" Mother claimed.

Daquaviantae couldn't tell if his real mom was dead or not. He was frozen, he couldn't move.

"I have to get out of here and save my actual mom.." Daquaviantae thinks.

"Let me go Mother. Or should I even call you that.." Daquaviantae states in a cold matter.

"You want to do this the hard way Daquaviantae? Fine then." Mother states.

She gives him a bowl of soup.

"Eat. Im finding your friend, he can't know or tell anyone about our secret." Fake Mother says.

Daquaviantae knew what she meant by that.. He felt like he was dreaming.. His mind struck.

"Please take as much blood from me as you want. I'll stay here forever if you don't hurt my friend." Daquaviantae says.

Then he remembers he told Kathaetri about where the tower is. He felt like giving up because the chains wouldn't budge. He felt like giving up until he thought of all the help and kindness there was still in the world. He needed to escape this villian posing as his Mother..

Chapter Five: Villain

Back with katheatri he knew that his friend was in trouble. Based off of what Daquaviantaequin told him.. He remembers he told him about a tower deep into the woods. He chirped and told all his friends to try to find the tower. He knew something was wrong. They all fly and for a few hours they find the tower. They try to get in through the entrance door but it was locked. One of Kathaetri's friend found a little opening through one of the windows. They can smell Daquaviantae. Kathaetri knew that Daquaviantae was the lost prince and if Daquaviantaes Mother could use Him for royal blood he definitely was the reason for his real mothers disappearance too. The hybrid birds tried to be very quiet and try to look around for Daquaviantae They seen his fake Mother leave holding a weapon.. They quickly fly up into the attic that they were trapped in but being chained up they didnt know what to do from there.

"KATHAETRI YOU FOUND ME!!!" Daquaviantae screamed in happiness.

"Help us please. This creature right here is my mom.. She's the only creature that i've ever seen that looked like me. She hasn't gotten up." Daquaviantae says.

The hybrid birds all go around to search for keys to undo the chains but then.. Mother comes back through the front entrance and hears the birds flying everywhere.

"I'M GONNA KILL ALL OF YOU." Fake Mother shouts.

She goes around to the safe that has the gun and she starts to climb up into the attic.

Chapter Five: Villain

When she gets up there she was shooting everywhere trying not to hit Daquaviantae or his real Mother. Suddenly, she feels a pain in her gut and flowing all around her body. She drops the gun but realizes she didn't get shot herself or sees any blood. She looks around for a bit with the last bit of strength she had. She saw Daquaviantae hurt himself and blood soaking up his fur. He knew that if he hurt himself the Royal blood she injected in her would fade. Fake mother dies on the spot. The birds get napkins and any cloth they could find to cover up the stab wound on Daquaviantaes body.

Now neither Daquaviantae or his real mom would wake up. They went to go get help from the city. Everyone was shutting them out. But then they had no choice but to report that they found the lost prince and Queen. The palace hasn't opened since they went missing. Knowing it was to risky for other Royalty to be seen in open. The king was informed. He didn't believe it but he has been depressed and lonely the past 22 years. He informs guards to go check the tower out and they carried Daquaviantae and his Real mothers body out. Fake mother turned into dust. She was supposed to be dead a long time ago. They did a blood test and Daquaviantaequins father couldn't believe his eyes. It was really his baby and wife. He cried looking at them on the hospital beds in the palace. Hoping they would wake up.

"Wow, i've never seen him show emotion in years." One of the oldest guards says to another.

"Yeah he never even comes out of his room." Another guard says. Every year on Daquaviantae and his real Mothers birthday which was the same day the citizens gathered to make the comedian show because when Daquavniantaes Mother wasn't taken she was the one who enlightened Daecrent town and made everyone happy. Maybe the city can finally become happy again and not just filled with a little bit of kindness but overflow with kindness

Chapter Six: New Beginnings

Two weeks later Daquaviantaequin and his real Mother woke up at the same time. The king sat there everyday till they woke up so he was the first one to see them wake. They all cried and hugged each other. They all had no words. Every memory was coming back for Daquaviantaes parents even tho it has been 22 years. They show Daquaviantae all his baby photos. Daquaviantae was so happy there was other creatures that looked like him. He didn't have to feel alone anymore. He knew in this palace he would be even more safe than he thought he was. He sees Kathaetri enter the room. They hug.

"Thank you for showing me how kind the world really is." Daquaviantaequin says. Kathaetri nods and chirps.

Turns out they both healed fast due to the royal blood in them and Daquaviantaes real Mother wouldnt wake up all these past years because Fake mother would inject a sort of sleeping medicine so she wouldn't wake up and just used a machine to feed and take care of her herself. Even though she hasn't been awake in years, she could still hear everything. Earlier in the day when Daquaviantaequin heard banging was because his real Mother could sense the day they would get avenged was coming. She awoke even tho she was on the deep medicine. She was banging in a hope for Daquaviantaequin to find her.

They get used to the palace and Daquaviantaequin makes so much more friends then he ever intended. They made it on the most popular newspaper of the year and Daquaviantaes Mother continued with her humor and so did Daquaviantae. The palace doors opened again. The town was happy again. Since Daquaviantae was to used to his name even though his real name was originally Selden they stuck with Daquaviantaequin. Everything turned to good and Daquaviantaequin showed the whole town his powers how he can hear good with his sacred ears, his cross eye hypothesis and best of all fluff shield. In honor of them being rescued and safe everyone went to go play Daquaviantaes favorite hobby, nut picking. They all lived happily ever after.