Chapter One: The Perfect Dream

In the year 2149, there was a little girl named Aria Luminara. She was 12 years old at the time and still learning how to control her powers. In her backyard where the grass was shining with a vibrant green color, filled to the brim with colorful flowers. Dahlias, dandelions, tulips and more filled the empty space of green to the fullest.

Aria would sit with her father in the garden where he would paint and tell her stories of how the town was built. From their house to another and another. His face became serious when he shared a story to her about how everyone used to be able to connect and how one person destroyed the trust and connections.

The person who did so was from the dark clan. The person wanted to overpower the world and take everything from others.

Her dad told her that he and her mom had to escape and create another livable village where everything was back to how it was before. He then taught her the way painting works and told how her abilities will continue to grow with her as she grew. They both would sit together till the sun started to set, letting the warm glow paint the world with its gold filter. Her head rested on her dad's shoulder, while her eyes drooped closer and closer to closed.

She then mumbled the words that spoke, "I want to create my own world... One that's perfect for everyone.." Aria soon fell asleep with a dream that she made sure that it'll happen

Chapter Two: Newfound Promise

It's now the year 2160 and Aria is now currently age 23. Aria finally achieved all her powers, giving her full control of painting, exploding people from the inside, light healing, teleportation, going through different dimensions, and copying powers. She was in the festival buying fruits, vegetables, and meat for her family.

That is until she saw smoke... Right in the direction of her home.

Aria dropped her items, her heart thumping louder and louder into her ears as she whistles her dragon, Sylphira. Aria's silky black hair sways with the wind as Aria climbed onto its back. Aria quickly ties her hair into a messy bun before Sylphira's wings that shined from its silver scales flapped into the air and flew faster than light. Aria's adrenaline pumped through her veins as she finds her town in flames. Sylphira dodged through the trees to Aria's house where Aria spots her parents fighting against the dark clan. She finds her mother injured on the ground, blood running down her forehead.

"Sylphira! Take my mom and get her to safety! Now!" Aria shouted worriedly. Aria teleports to her dad taking out her galient sword, ready to fight against the enemy. Until...she finds her dad on the ground. His expression blank. The enemy in front of her eyes with a galient sword, the initials of her father, AL standing for Alex Luminara. The enemy looks behind his shoulder glaring at Aria before teleporting through the shadows.

"Dad..?" Aria ran towards her dad's body. She put her hand on the penetrated wound and tries to heal it with light healing.

"Come on, dad, don't give up yet.." Aria's voice cracks slightly, a lump in her throat making it hard for her to swallow.

"Aria..." her dad coughs out. "You grew up so fast... I wish I could continue to watch you grow.."

"Dad stop making this more dramatic than it has to be.." she says, tears slowly pouring out one by one. Her hands start to tremble, trying to keep her feelings in check.

"Oh, honey I believe these can be the last breaths I take. I hope you know that I love you a lot, just as much as your mom. These days will come continuously, whether they're good or bad, time ticks and never waits. You'll have to understand that people can't stay forever." her dad takes a breath and looks at Aria, wiping away her tears off her face.

"Don't cry Aria, I don't want to get in trouble by your mother" He lets out a low chuckle before his eyes lose its spark.

"Dad..? Dad? Dad!" Aria shouts as if he'll possibly wake up. That was when she settled. She knows that she can't bring him back to life. She knows that it wasn't her fault that he died. But, why does she feel so uneasy?

She feels the hot stream of tears burn against her cheeks, her anger boiling inside her.

"I'll get them back. They'll regret what they've done," she says through rage. She picks up her dad on her back and teleports home where her mom is laying on the couch being watched by Sylphira.

"Sylphira watch over dad," she orders. Aria lays her dad on the floor before going to her mom.

"Mom, are you okay?" she whispers, holding her hand.

"Oh Aria, I'm fine but, how's your dad?" her mother asked.

"He's no longer here.." Aria replies. She sees her mom's eyes widen when she hears the news.

"Honey, now's not the time to make jokes," her voice low and serious.

"I'm not joking, mom. We're going to have to set up a funeral for dad," Aria chokes back a sob. Her mom looks at her in disbelief before finally letting the news soak in. She sits up and hugs Aria tightly. Aria tries to hold in the feelings but they're too hard to hold. She buries her face into her mother's shoulder and lets go. She starts to cry while her mom pats her back trying to soothe her. Her mom takes a few deep breaths and continues to hold her through the harsh night.

Chapter Three: Leaving Home

A few days past after Aria's father's funeral, her mom tries to stay strong without the love of her life. Aria can see it in her eyes that she's not doing well. Aria looks at the redness of her mother's eyes and sees the dark eye bags under them.

"Mom, I'm gonna leave for awhile. Is there anything you need while I'm gone?" Aria questions.

"Maybe some groceries then," her mom replies looking out the window into the backyard where Aria's father used to sit at while painting. Her mom continues to stare outside as if looking for an answer to a question that she's been holding in for a long time. Aria sits next to her mom and gives her a long, tight hug.

"Mom, can you promise me something?" Aria whispers. Her mom nods and hugs Aria back.

"Can you promise me that you'll take care of yourself when I'm gone, promise me that you'll be safe and healthy?" Aria asks.

"I promise, sweetheart, I promise to be healthy and to take care of myself," her mom promised. Aria nods at the reassurance and gets up to buy her mom groceries before her leave.

Aria then gets up and puts on her leather jacket, buttoning it up. She puts on her shoes and gets on Sylphira.

"Take me to the festival," Aria said while patting Sylphira's neck. Sylphira then proceeds to fly into the air, taking Aria to the festival.

When they arrive Sylphira flies over to a hill keeping distance away from the festival, being careful to not destroy it. Aria purchases certain foods such as vegetables, meat, grain, fruit, etc. She then decides to buy a golden pendant and puts an old family picture inside of the bag as a gift. Aria packs up the groceries and takes them home.

"Mom, I'm home," Aria says, organizing the groceries into the kitchen.

"Hey honey, what did you buy?" her mom asks, settling into a chair.

"I just bought the normal things you know? Vegetables, fruits, all that stuff," Aria continues to set the things away until she gets out the pendant.

"I bought you a gift. I think you'll really like it," Aria says in a soft voice, handing her mom the pendant. The golden pendant reflects from the light shining from above. Her mom gently takes the pendant and opens it. She finds the picture of her and Aria's dad on the inside and tears well up in her eyes. Aria hugs her mom comforting her as she cries.

When her mom stopped crying, Aria gets ready to leave. Her mom helps her but, before she leaves Aria's mother gave her a blessing. Her mom put a white thread around her wrist while saying out blessings like how she wishes Aria good luck, how she'll come home safely, how she'll get strength from these little pieces of thread.

After the blessings, Aria gives her mom a tight hug.

"I'll be back mom," Aria reassures. Her mom nods and hesitantly lets go as Aria gets on Sylphira's back and demands, "Take me to the dark territory," Sylphira roars loudly and flaps its wings up into the air. Her mom waved goodbye from below and Aria leaves.

Chapter Four: Secret Arrival

Sylphira arrives at the dark territory, putting its wings down for Aria to get off of. When Aria gets off, she spots someone in the distance .

"Sylphira, fly away, I'll call you when I need you," Aria pats the head of Sylphira as it flies into the sky. Aria hides into a bush, looking over her shoulder as she hears footsteps near...closer and closer. The leaves below the strangers feet crushes below. The range between the two of them were close enough that Aria was able to reach her hand out and copy the powers of the stranger. Aria then became the strangers shadow following his movements closely.

The person goes back into the castle where it's dark with little dim lights. She then slides into the darkness leaving the shadow of the random man. She takes in all of her surroundings and keeps her guard up. She continues to glide in the darkness until she bumps into another shadow. Aria holds her breath while slowly backing away from the person. But, the shadow does the same? She knows that if she was caught she would've been in trouble.

"What?" Aria whispers, "Just who are you?" the shadow goes onto the surface taking off it's cover. She finds another person from the same clan. His hair is white with blue and brown eyes..

Aria also emerges from the floor. Her jet black hair following out. He stared at her for a couple seconds before talking.

"I'm Lucas, you are?"

"Aria, what are you doing here anyways?" Aria questions. Lucas frowns at the question, knowing that, Aria doesn't want to push it any further but stays curious. Lucas sighs and finally tells her.

"I'm here for revenge, these villains took my family and I'm here to make them suffer for their mistake," Lucas said firmly. Aria nods in acknowledgement and agreement.

"Same here, I guess we're both here for the same reason then eh?" Aria asks.

"I guess so," Lucas confirms, "We might as well work together too, I'll have your back and you have mine, sounds good?"

"I understand completely," Aria lets out a relieved sigh as she realized that it wasn't an enemy but someone who experienced something she did.

They both start to stay side by side quietly while sneakily going around the areas. They found two guards standing outside the gates where the two of them copy their powers and do a secret attack from going into the shadows and attacking them from behind. They took the cloaks that the guards wore and finally were able to feel less tense as they blended in with the others.

They walk into the main base where they are crowded with other members of the dark clan.. People continued to bump into each other making Lucas slightly frustrated. Aria spots someone, someone with the same figure and the same cloak that was worn at the killing of her father. She freezes in her spot with shock.

"What are you doing?" Lucas questioned, wondering why she stopped moving. He followed her gaze and found someone standing in the crack between others from walking, "Who is that?" he whispered.

"That's him, the person who killed my dad," Aria points her hand trembling with mixed emotions. Lucas quickly pulls out his palette and paintbrush where he creates a fast sketch of a bright cell trapping the man from escaping through shadows.

"What are you doing?! You're going to blow our cover!" Aria spoke worriedly.

"Well now's your chance to get revenge, unless you came here just to be dumb and waste your life dying here by yourself!" He exclaimed in confusion and a hint of anger at her comment. Lucas takes her hand and teleports to the bright cell where the man stands there unfazed. He pulls his hood down showing his face where he pulls out Aria's dad's galient sword. His face had many scars and what seemed to be a blind eye. He had tanned skin with black hair that shines from the light. Everyone glances over at the commotion from the three.

"Found me already?" the man smirked while swinging the sword in his hand.

"Who are you and why would you do such a thing to my family? What did we ever do?!" Aria shouted.

"Oh mighty lord you're so loud, there's really no reason to shout, darling," he grinned, "Well my name is Kyle Luminara."

"What? How do you have that last name..? You're not from the light clan, you're here. You've been here! There's no way that a member of the dark clan have the same last name as people from the light clan." she said in skepticism.

"Gosh... How rude of your father to not even introduce me to you," Kyle said with a smug on his face, "Aria was it?"

"H-how do you know my name?" Aria stuttered.

"Pfft, wow! You've grown up so much! My niece," Kyle said in a deep tone of voice. He swung the sword which broke through the cell. Aria is left speechless with billions of questions that scrambled through her mind.

"Why would you kill my dad? Your brother!" Aria said getting significantly closer to him, "Why are you even here?" her voice serious filled with a rage inside.

"So many questions, you just never stop talking do you?" Kyle grips the sword tightly while walking towards Aria and Lucas.

Chapter Five: Fight Against Family

Kyle lunges towards them with the sword in hand. Luckily, Lucas was able to grab Aria's hand and teleport away. Everyone around them start to snicker and surround the three people. They cheered loudly making Aria irritated and unfocused.

"Wow, who's this knight in shining armor?" Kyle said sarcastically walking towards them. Lucas's jaw clenches when Kyle continues to speak in a sarcastic tone.

"Let's take this elsewhere shall we?" Kyle challenged and used Aria's father's sword to open up a dimension where it seemed empty.

"So be it, let's get this over with," Lucas accepted while looking at Aria for support.

"Let's go," Aria said in a hesitant voice not wanting to fight her own uncle.

They walk into the portal where it closes right behind them giving them all the time in the world to fight without distractions. Kyle whistles and his dragon comes in. The dragon was dark compared to Sylphira. It gave off an aura that showed authority to others as Kyle climbs onto its back.

"Call whatever you want, I might just go easy," Kyle smirked and flew up into the sky waiting for them to call their dragons. Aria whistles and Sylphira roars from the sky and lands on its feet with a threatening glare in its eyes.

Aria then pats Sylphira's neck signaling to fly up. Aria looks down at Lucas.

"Get yours out, hurry before he decides to sneak up," Aria demanded to Lucas.

"Geez I was, no need to be so bossy," Lucas rolls his eyes and instead of whistling he blows a horn. His dragon comes into the empty dimension making it rumble. His dragon was a lot larger than Kyle's and Aria's. Its wings were thicker and bigger and had the skin of what looked just like Kyle's dark but with scars. Highlighting the healed flesh.

"Ready?" Kyle asked swinging Aria's father's sword.

"Stop playing with that and use your own," Aria said firmly.

"Make me," Kyle said. His dragon then flew at a fast pace but Sylphira was able to dodge the attack just as fast.

"Don't forget me!" Lucas shouted as his dragon hits his.

"So annoying.." Kyle grunted. He flew up into the air only to find Aria. Aria draws her sword and swings at him. Kyle dodges it but gets a cut on his rib. Aria winces at the sight and draws back flying to Lucas.

"What do we do?" Lucas asked.

"He seems pretty predictable, I think we'll be able to get it... But, don't let me be the one to kill him. Please," Aria pleads.

"Who knows, anything could happening," Lucas flies back into the sky where Kyle is healing himself. Lucas then takes out his bow and shoots at him continuously. Kyle's dragon flaps its wings blowing away the arrows. The dragon opens its mouth blowing a dark smoke covering the vision of Lucas.

Kyle teleports off of his dragon onto Lucas's. Aria quickly sees this and teleports onto Lucas's dragon as well for support. Aria takes out her golden galient sword and clashes with Kyle's. The friction of the two swords spark against each other pushing the two of them away.

"I guess you aren't as weak as you look," Kyle states and lunges back in but teleports last second behind Aria. Lucas teleports behind Aria and catches the blade in his hands. His blood drips onto the sword as Kyle slashes through his hands leaving a deep cut in his hands. Aria grabs onto Lucas's shirt and teleports to a far distance.

"Are you okay?!" Aria says worriedly watching Kyle swing the blood off the sword.

"Yeah, I'm fine," Lucas puts his hands together and heals himself. Aria teleports behind Kyle and tosses a cloak. Kyle quickly swings his sword at the cloak but, Aria ducks under it and lands a blow to the stomach. Kyle stumbles backwards blood pouring from his stomach. He tries to teleport away but doesn't have the energy. He calls his dragon but it doesn't fly to him. He looks around and finds Lucas standing on top of the dragon.

"You!" Kyle coughs out blood. Aria stands behind him not caring as much anymore just wanting revenge. She watches Kyle stumble to the ground in front of her. She puts her knee onto Kyle's back pinning him down.

"I'm gonna need some answers," she said coldly putting her blade at his neck. Kyle raises his neck and clenches his jaw.

"Alright! Alright! What do you wanna know?" Kyle said he said fearfully. Aria presses the blade on Kyle's neck drawing blood.

Kyle's breathing starts to fasten as the blade presses onto his neck even more.

"First, why did you kill my dad?" Aria asked as Lucas sat in at far distant watching closely as he continues to heal his hands.

"I-I killed him because he took everything from me! He took my spot! As soon as he was born I was out of the world. Nobody knew me! I was invisible! But your dad? He took all the spotlight.. Everyone loved him but me? No!" Kyle shouted with jealousy.

"Is that so?" Aria spoke in a low tone, "Maybe you were meant to be in the dark." Kyle grunts and tries to get up.

"We're not done with questions yet," Aria grabs his hair and slams his head into the ground away from the blade, making him bleed out through his nose and mouth.

"Next question, why are you in the dark clan's territory if your from the light clan?" Aria grips Kyle's hair even tighter.

"You said it yourself...I belong in the dark," Kyle goes back to the comment that Aria made.

"Your not answering the question, Uncle Kyle," Aria almost slams his head back down onto the ground until Lucas swiftly takes her wrist.

"Calm down Aria, I know you want revenge but calm down," Lucas says keeping her sane. Aria lets out a sigh and calmly says, "Answer my question."

"Fine fine! The reason why I'm here is because I knew you would come for me...And I wanted to show you that I could be just as powerful so I joined the dark clan!" Kyle exclaims tears forming in his eyes.

Aria lets out a long sigh clearly frustrated.

"Jealousy is all in your head huh?" Aria says pressing the blade deeper onto his neck, "I guess I didn't really need your help Lucas. But thanks for helping me trap him," Aria slashes through Kyle's neck. Kyle's head rolls on the ground, his blood splattering everything. Aria's blade, her black hair, her clothes, and the lushes green grass. Lucas stands by watching as the scene unfolds. Aria feels a heavy weight that weighs her down. She spots dark arms coming up from the ground pulling her in. She doesn't resist and takes the necklace from Kyle before emerging into the shadows.

"Farewell, Aria," Lucas says in a quiet tone. Lucas stands there, confused about everything. He takes his sword out and goes back to the original dimension where he continues to search for the one who killed his loved one.

Chapter Six: Finished Product

Aria wakes up from her dream sweating profusely. Something's wrong, she clenches her fist feeling an object in her hand. The necklace that she took. Aria quickly puts on the necklace as she rushed downstairs to where she finds...

"Dad?" Aria whispers.

"Aria! Finally awake? You slept for quite a while, honey," Her mom pulls her into a soft embrace. Her dad walks towards both of them and hugs them. Aria glances out the window to see that it's her painting. The painting of what she wanted from the beginning. The start to her dreams. Painting a world of her own.

"Dad... I have a question.." Aria asks hesitantly.

"Of course, anything, what is on your mind honey?" Her dad asks.

"Do you have a brother? Named Kyle perchance?" She asked. Her dad looks confused.

"Who's Kyle?" Her dad questioned. Aria tried to read his expression but, he really seemed like he didn't know anyone related to him with the name Kyle..

"Nevermind dad, just a thought.." Aria looks outside into the garden looking at her painting. She lets go of her parents and walks outside where she picks up her brush. She puts her last stroke finishing the painting. Aria takes her sword out and penetrates the air, slicing it open to her dimension.

"I'll see you in a few okay? I just need to check my finished product," Aria notifies them and goes inside.
