

Eyed-Browed Robot's Journey (Part 1)

A Dreamvale Story by Landon Thao

CERTIFIED DREAMVALE

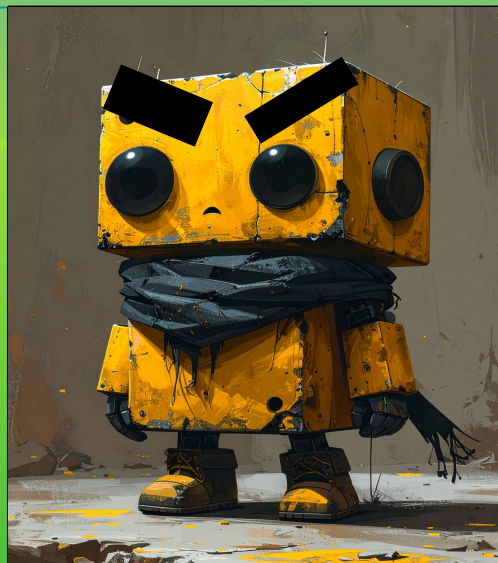

Name: Тарган дээрэмчин

Age: ثلاثمئة وتسعة وعشرون

Species: Cloned transmuted block

Gender: 男生

Home Planet: Albus

Personality Traits

- Doesn't trust or like anyone.
- Its favorite food is 라면

Abilities

- Create Anything that exist in animes (including characters)
- Lv 1 Teleportation
- Lv 0 Cloning
- Lv 2 Changing size

Moral Alignment

Chaotic Evil

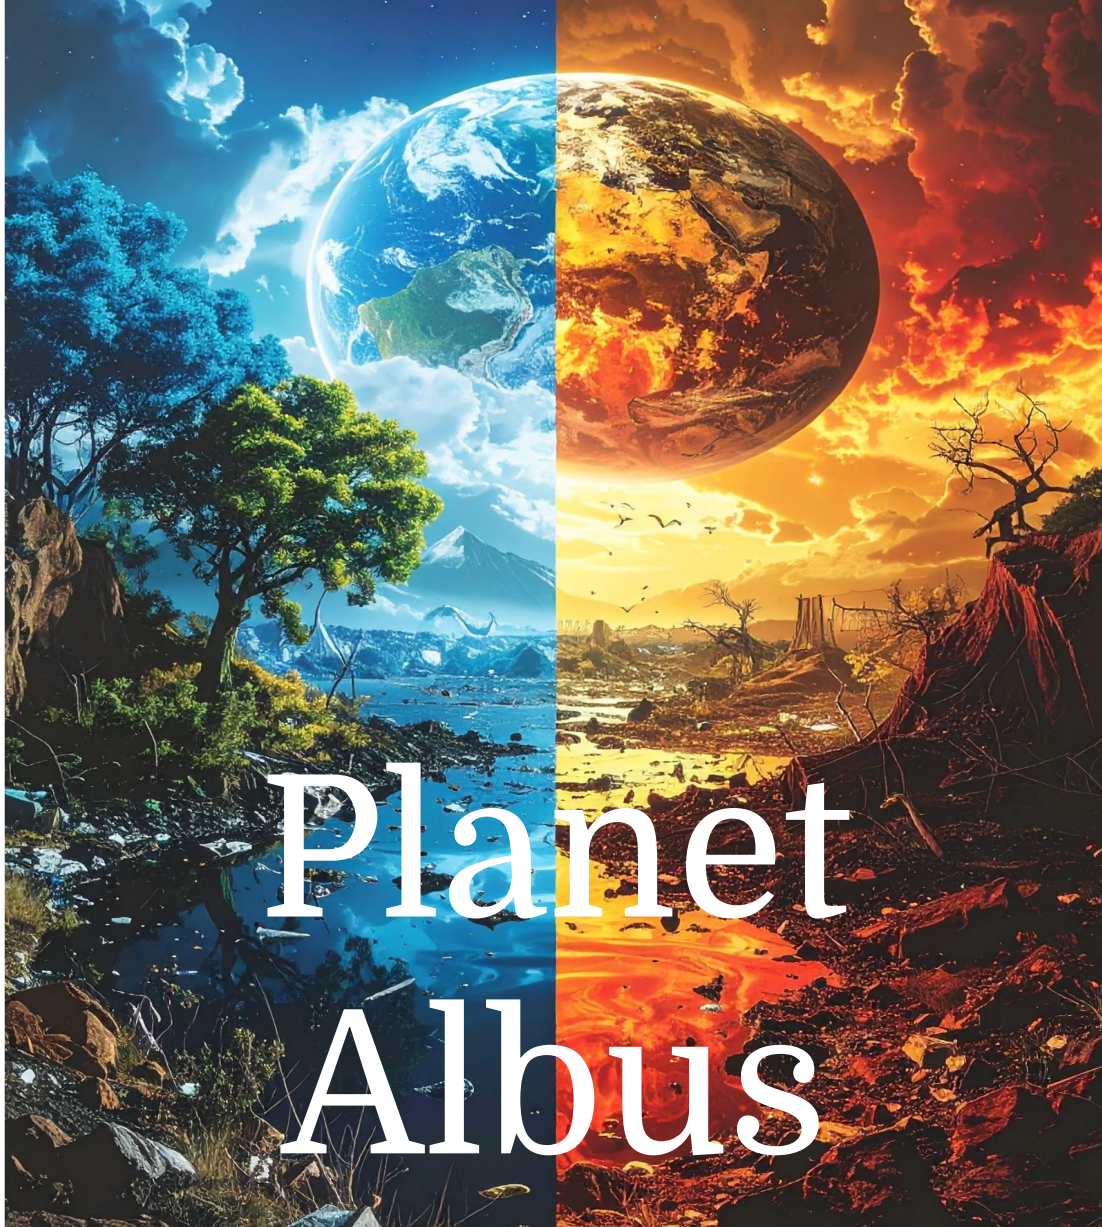

Dream(s)

To be the most feared against the Empire ruling it's planet.

Fear(s)

Spiderman due to watching too much spiderman movies

Backstory: Forgotten, and ended stranded somewhere in the Unknown. Gets chased from the Empire of the Dumped trash. Getting scars, forever damage on its body. Always getting revenge on those that it dislikes. Normally a 3ft guy.

Planet Albus

Meltalical-Moles

Solonmander milk

Coordinates (x, y)	11,000, 13,000	Government Type	10% is dictatorship 90% is anarchy
Population	1,275,248,692	Intergalactic Disposition	Neutral, Cautious
Terrain	Smelly swamps, trash everywhere, lively green, Polluted waters, Mountainous ranges.	Primary Race(s)	Humans, Transmuted cloned blocks,
Climate	Rain, sunny	Primary Resource/ Technology	Solonmander-milk Can help foretell the future, gain special powers that can be inherited, and make those who drink it have a iq of 1000. Can only be required by ancient solonmanders that live 80,000 miles below the surface of Albus. Can only be extracted once per solonmander, and there are 93 of that species.
Size	19.5	Description	Used to be a very bright planet, but due to the humans finding this adaptable place, the land that was known for thriving, is now known for trash. Now due to the trash, many species have gone extinct, and few that have survived are being used as food, clothes, and pets for the humans.
Planetary Wildlife	Meltalical-Moles One of the only species that are able to endure the harsh smell and clean the trash on former planet Albus. Now called planet Trump. Can help eliminate trash on the planet.

Druvunus

Dark matter

Fishaleta

Void-King

Baby Megalodon Eggs

Origin Story: A egg transport to Planet Fishtopia, but some eggs fell into unknown planets below. One of them Planet Druvunus. Apparently the eggs fell straight into a lake of Dark Matter, awaiting to be awakened by its future master.

Appearance: Black liquid mutated megalodon sharks doubled the size of a average megalodon (160 meters tall). Always changing. Only there to serve its master.

● Black floor

Black liquid dripping on the ground making traps for the enemy, but making the user of the Corrupted Fishy more speedy.

◆ liquid-armor

Goes inside the body of the user, letting the user decide what to do with Fishaleta, like making armor, or weapons or even mutate the user into a beast.

★ Cloned-Animals-Attack

Separates into 15, 10.5 meter tall liquid creatures Swarming around the enemy at the speed of sound then rushing towards the enemy in 15 various paths and landing 10 blows to the body per beast created randomly.

Chapter 1: A New Beginning

Awaking, I noticed I was mutating. Scared, lonely, small, all of those were how I felt. No one came, no one saw, everyone avoided. Until I met him, lil Jimmity burg, he, a 6-foot-tall mixed angel, a nice one too, had noticed me and had taken me under his wing. Life was good until they came. Humans, from planet Earth. They came to this place to find solitude. They destroyed, conquered, and even threatened others. Started colonizing, started dumping trash everywhere. Hunting, killing those that did nothing to them, except refusing. Now, today, 320 years after their first impression. A massive empire, I continued to get rid of, remains.

Waking up to a new world, unlike it used to be, I sought to fight till no humans are on here. I looked around the distant places, filled with trash, swamps, and deserts. Nothing like it used to be. I ran to find lil Jimmity burg, nowhere, I was alone again. I started running towards the big kingdom or empire, whatever people say it is. I see dead skulls, craters everywhere, closer to the kingdom. I forgot what happened 300 years ago, what happened, and why I was the only one left. Soon, I found this thing, a type of milk, since I was hungry, I chugged it, not knowing what it had done. I suddenly got smacked, humans. I started running dizzy from the smack, as I heard one say, “Aye, that would’ve given us billions, wait no, trillions.”

“No, it took years to find a solonmander.” Said another human.

“It’s fine, just get the thug that absorbed it, he could have an ability that would make 10 times more than the milk.” Said the biggest human.

“Solonmander milk?” I thought, Aren’t they like the most valuable resource on this planet, and aren’t they hard to find? I kept running, the humans behind me running to get me. But then a thud, I ran into something, and I blanked out.

“Yes, we are gonna be rich, let’s bring it in and test our luck.” Said a human.

Chapter 1: A New Beginning

When I woke up, machines were everywhere, cities, humans, and even imprisoned species were there. At the Trump state empire. Somehow, he was alive, young again. As I was tossed into a cage, going to be examined by machines of some sort, I heard a man with a long white jacket say

“What should we name that guy?” Another dude who looked totally different from the white guys started saying a different language. I don’t remember what language it was, but due to him, my name was " Experiment 362 “Тарган дээрэмчин.”

In the lab where I was experimented on, pain, scars, and fermented damage that changed my appearance, trying to kill me to get a power that I was unknown to. I swore to kill those humans who tested me, and tested others, too—causing many species to die out.

Then one day, when I was wired up, and me having no hope left. “Bam, Bang, Boom,” I didn’t understand what was happening, but the only thing I knew was to escape. I ran forward, seeing bombs explode left and right, chaos everywhere. Wondering what was happening while running. Humans and other species on the planet were getting injured, yet I felt no empathy for them. I ran; other species and friends came too, but not Jim-burg. Soon, a soldier started looking and spotted my eyes, and I ran.

“Get him!” He yelled. Soon, android-like robots started hunting me down. I could hear them rushing towards me. Then there was a cliff from a bomb; it was a dead end for them. But not me, I jumped in, hoping that this wasn’t the end. Looking up, I saw the bots rushing towards me. I tried my best to avoid trying to imitate swimming like I’m underwater even though I don’t know how to swim, but it didn’t work, and throwing up. Til I landed in a field of unique mushrooms that broke my fall, then I rushed inside into the caverns deep inside the ravine. Stunned by the beauty of the shining, untouched minerals, red, blue, and even rainbow. But something more special, a Solonmander.

Solonmanders are usually 16 meters tall, with thorns; it's kinda like a T. rex, whatever the humans had. They live in deep caves in Albus. Their eggs are 8 ft tall and 6 ft wide. Amazed by my discovery, I knew this was a place where humans couldn’t or shouldn’t find. The Solonmander that I had found was asleep, so I crept to an exit or a different part of the cave. Soon I heard a “huff”, I looked behind and “Oh shoot, looks like I should run!” I yelled.

Chapter 2 : Deep Caverns

Stomping behind me was the awakened Solonmander, walking towards me, trying to stomp me. I ran towards the deeper caverns of the majestic cave, while the Solonmander was trying to obliterate me. Running and running, stumbling across more and more Solonmanders, knowing that I was going to be surrounded soon, I looked across. A shining orb, I turned and ran towards it, and grabbed it. Then it infused with my broken, rusted body. I then fell and blanked out.

When I woke up, there were whispers all around me, yet no one was there. I looked around, still in the cave. My body fixed, I'm feeling smarter and regenerating at a very fast pace. I wondered what was happening. I walked towards a dead end. But it wasn't. It suddenly opened. Curious, I went inside. There, the voices were clearer, louder. Soon, I saw the same Solonmanders chasing me; they all welcomed me. Saying "Sorry for the trouble we caused."

I nodded and replied, "It's fine."

As I stepped inside, a map of every planet in the universe was there. Even the planet that I was on, I knew what I was destined to go to. Due to the humans invading planets and Lavarsi dominating planets nearby, even Marp, a planet that used to come here, has fallen to Lavarsi.

"You must solve this. You must destroy the humans living on these planets and others, too. Destroy planets with the name Earth, the source of all humans." Said a large old Solonmander.

"How can I hear you? And why must I have to? Why can't you? You all have powers unknown to the universe." I replied.

"You, the chosen one, from this planet, will meet others like you. You're the only one who survived the harsh human war trying to dominate this planet. Don't you feel the power in you? Didn't you consume Solonmander milk?" He questioned.

"I did, out of an accident. I was thirsty." I said.

"It doesn't matter now, come, we will know what power you have gotten." He said.

Chapter 2: Deep Caverns

As I followed him, others came to greet me, saying what potential I have. The name of the eldest Solonmander was Alvis. Soon we stopped, and had arrived at a strange tube, colored blue and green, flowing with red lava. I stepped inside the tube.

“Relax, kid, this will take only a sec.” Said Alvis. As I made myself comfortable, dashing colors surrounded the inside of the tube. At the end, when the tube opened, I read my power gained from the milk I drank. The power of Aisling is known as the power of creation. Though it was powerful, I could only create things in fantasy. But that wasn’t all, I was able to change size, teleport, and clone myself and others too.

“First one to get multiple powers,” said Alvis.

“Huh? I thought all powers come from you?” I questioned.

“The power is chosen by your characteristics, and another bonus is that over time, your wisdom will spark, reaching beyond the limits of 1,000. chosen by the universe. You are one of a kind.” Said Alvis.

“Ok, so like now I’m an overpowered robot like in Dragon Ball,” I said.

“No, you’re not the strongest; there are others more blessed and having more talent than you.” Said Alvis. As I walked towards the surface, on my departure from the Solonmanders, I stumbled over craters everywhere. The planet is full of wisdom, life, and happiness, but now it is corrupted by humans and treated as a testing ground. I vowed never to allow this to happen to others.

I didn’t understand how to use my powers, so I started small. Creating shields from Zelda, teleporting at least 1 mile away, and changing size to 30.5 feet tall. Trying to clone myself. But failed very badly. Soon, my power was getting out of control, and I was attracting nearby humans. I was trying to run, but was teleporting back and back, where I was. Then I was creating golems, and reaching sizes of 100 miles tall. Then I was creating giant clones of myself, but way scarier and mutated. I was impressed by the possibility, but tried to maintain control. More and more humans were rushing to chain me down, trying to figure out which clone was me, and I kept trying to run. As they narrowed down which were clones, a human got 2 inches in front of me, and I vanished.

Chapter 3 : Different Planet

Questioning what had happened, I looked around the planet I thought I was at. Black sludge, green scenery everywhere, with dead trees and crooked leaves. In the sky, a moving land with green ozone flowing down due to gravity. I started walking in a direction, walking miles and miles, until I started stressing.

“This isn’t my planet. Where am I? Am I even at home?” Questions I had, yet to be answered, I kept walking, even trying to teleport. Until I stumbled across a small, tiny town of goblins as tall as a dwarf. I walked towards a green goblin creature.

“Where am I? I meant, where are we at?” I asked the goblin.

“We are on a planet named 'Druvunus, my home.’ Pretty cool, right?” said the goblin.

“Ok, so are you the main species of your planet? And what’s your name?” I asked.

“Yes, my species is mainly everywhere usually, and we all go by “The Laser.” But I’m number 15,673,234 in my species. We are the Lizard people. We can shoot lasers everywhere. Did you know that? Pretty cool, right?” Laser 15,673,234 said.

“Yeah, that’s nice to know, so I am from Albus, which is on a different side of the universe, but can I go back home, or is it not possible?” I asked.

“It is, but how did you even come here?” Laser 15,673,234 asked.

“I teleported here by accident,” I said.

“Then why don’t you teleport back? You came here by teleporting, so teleport back.” He explained.

“I can’t, it was an accident,” I explained again.

“Ok, the only way out, wait, let me check if there is a way out... Laser 324,249, is there any way out of here?” Laser 15,673,234 asked another Laser fellow.

“Um, yes, but only one. You know the tale, Laser 15,673,234, that’s the only way out.” Said Laser 324,249. After a long discussion with all the nearby Lasers, Laser 15,673,234 said:

“Ok, in this myth on this planet and only planet, an egg was transported to Planet Fishtopia, but some eggs fell into unknown planets below. One of them is Planet Druvunus, the planet we are on. Apparently, the eggs fell straight into a lake of Dark Matter, awaiting to be awakened by its future master. I can give you the map to the eggs, and it will allow you to travel back to your planet.”

“Thanks,” I replied. As I got a map to the eggs, and observed it, apparently I would have to travel through dark matter, and The Lasers have told me to be careful, as it can corrupt the heart, even as one so pure.

Chapter 3 : Different Planet

So on an adventure on a different planet across the Dreamvale-verse, I had to go find a fish to help me get back home. As I left The Lasers behind me, I knew that I would have a new adventure awaiting me, and it is on a map. As I left the village, I looked at the map.

“This is not a map; this is just some mixed-up lines. Wait, what am I supposed to do with this?” I whispered to myself. Continuing on the so-called legit map, I was led to a mysterious cave.

“There cannot be any way that the eggs just suddenly dropped in the perfect hole into a lake of Dark Matter,” I said. As I entered inside, signs of death and return were all too see. All of a sudden, the map with only words changed. My head is hurting, trying to understand the meaning of the map. Words shifting around, changing colors, the map is different. As I tried to go back, an invisible, flowing green wall was blocking me from exiting the cave. Then a sudden roar came out of nowhere, what's even in there knows I'm coming. Startled by the sound, I cuddled inside a small pit, sizing myself as small as a mouse. But then, randomly, I stood up and kept walking inside the cave.

Continuing, passing strange orbs and stones in the cave of Dark Matter, I stumbled across a maze. I tried to cheat it by sizing up, but it didn't work. Something was blocking my powers. Now I knew the 40-foot-tall vine walls were impossible to climb, so I entered the maze.

The maze was a mess, with vines on the ground with a slimy feeling, slowing me down. Wretched smells from the decomposing skulls all around. Even strange writing on a wall, purely ancient.

“Ugh, screw this maze, it's too complex,” I yelled. Suddenly, another roar came, one larger than the first roar. Then stomping sounds came, slowly, and came faster and faster. I had to hide, or I might've ended up like those skulls: crushed. Looking back and forth, wondering where to hide, I flew myself into a small patch of vines stuck on the wall. I stood still. As the being of the sound came, it was as half the size of the walls of the maze, stood on 4 legs, very similar to a horse, or was a horse's legs. Two mighty axes dripping black liquid, the body, a bulky human being? Lastly, the head looked like a cow with a nose piercing and eyes as red as Lavari. I froze; it was sniffing around, it was about time I was gonna get caught til a rock on the verge of falling due to the loud perious roar fell. Crashing down, the being caught the attention of the being, which was towards the site, investigating what had happened.

I used the opportunity and ran, making large noises, the large being turned around, in a fierce stance, going to trample me, and swing both of his axes at me. Turning and trying to avoid dead ends by observing and understanding the maze, then in my mind, I was able to envision what the maze looked like, and the way to the other side of the maze was within my eyes. Looking back, it, no, the beast behind me is slowing down for something. As I stopped to take a breath and to encode the escape route, I looked behind. Black liquid gets summoned around the beast, then the beast drops its weapons to let the black liquid consume it. Stunned by what happened, I looked back at the map, and all it said was to beware of the dark minotaur, and gave an image of what it looked like, with black and red eyes. I looked back at the minotaur, and I knew it was time to go back to running.

Chapter 4 : Cave of Dark Matter

The black-red-eyed minotaur, chasing me, was suddenly faster. I tried running faster, but it's slowly catching up. I now knew that there wouldn't be enough time to escape, so I stopped. As I did, it also did. The maze started changing shape, into a straight battleground; it was me versus the beast. Then a black orb on top of the ceiling fell, and I was able to use my abilities.

On the battlefield, it was only me and the minotaur. It suddenly charged itself at me, with its axes managing to scratch me. It was a life-or-death situation. I looked right back at the map while the minotaur was slowing down to not fall from the cliff, but the map didn't change, saying the same thing, beware of the dark minotaur. But as I closely observed, decoding what the image meant, I then understood what the map wanted me to do. I then started cloning myself, one, two, three was all I needed. My clones then create more clones, while I started distracting the minotaur. Using the vines around, swinging to another position every second. I knew he couldn't reach me, but yet again I was wrong. The minotaur extended its liquid arms and changed its axes into morning stars. As I knew there was going to be a dead end, I sized up and grabbed one of the minotaur's arms. Then spotted a black orb in the back of the minotaur, and I knew that had to be the source. So my clones, which were duplicated to 10,000 clones, ran and tried all, taking and breaking the orb.

One by one, clones were getting destroyed. I looked back at the map, and this time it said one word: Lake. That meant I had to run to the eggs, my only other fighting chance. I ran towards the exit of the maze as it was revealed from the walls to be a battlefield. It then rose. I went on top of the walls, I looked behind and froze, the minotaur was looking right at my soul. Then the minotaur dashed and ran, I turning and running on the walls, making larger shields, to block the attacks, doing what I could to survive. I decided to break a part of the wall. Sizing up my robot hand and breaking the wall. I had spent enough time and had gone through the end of the maze. Knowing this wasn't the end and I was doomed, I created as many shields as I could. But nothing happened. I looked at the minotaur in front, but wasn't able to get in due to a green flowy wall. All it said on its face: you were lucky.

Chapter 3 : Cave of Dark Matter

Knowing that I knew I was no match for what was ahead. But I knew that I survived, and even if it was luck, I am still living.

I then looked back at the minotaur, it suddenly started going through the walls of the maze, and then vanished, but only leaving its axes. I grabbed one of the axes as it could be useful in the future.

Then there were 3 item slots, one looking similar to the axe I had, so I put it in. Then part of the door opened. But a wall was still blocking me from going in. I observed what was needed.

“A feather, and a dark matter orb,” I said what was needed. I looked at the map, which showed where those were. Recently, I was at the hardest point of the cave, meaning that the rest were going to be easier, but still hard. Then I entered inside where the feather was, it was extremely hot inside, in the middle of the room was an egg with wings and feathers all around it. But it was floating. I went towards the egg, looking at what the map now has to say: Awaken. So it needs to be awake to give me a feather. Looking again, when it said awaken, there were red eyes, which means that it was already awake. I looked back at the egg, and the wings were gone. The heat is even hotter behind my back. The map said: "Don't look at it!" I stood still as it started shifting. I could feel myself burning inside.

“I can't handle this heat, it's too hot for me.” I thought, so I started moving slowly. Knowing that something that was behind my back was going to do something, I created a shield behind my back that was bigger than me. I was right, I looked behind, and heated rocks bent the shield. Looking behind me was a flaming bird, its eyes black, representing chaos, feathers red with a reddish-orange aura flowing around it. Apparently, this creature was known as the Phoenix.

Chapter 3 : Cave of Dark Matter

I saw a feather on the ground. It looked like the feather that would fit the slot needed to open the door, and I took it, amazed by the feather's beauty. I looked at the bird. A mistake I deeply regret, as soon as I looked at its eyes, the bird turned into a tornado with its head in the middle. The Phoenix, targeting me and trying to tear me apart.

Running again, I head towards the exit, back to the room with three headstones. But again I looked back, the phoenix stood still, the same black ooze appearing out of the ground and walls, came and took control of the bird. Bad as it was, I looked at my hand, and the feather wasn't there; it was going back to the bird. Startled, I ran towards the feather, desperate to go back to my planet. But it was too far, and I then knew that again I would have to fight the bird.

Looking at the bird, I saw a red portion of the Phoenix, open, a spot where there were red feathers to grab and for me to return to Albus. I started creating swords and spears, cloning myself, and throwing weapons to kill the bird. With murder in my mind, I saw even more liquid coming from the walls, this time for me, my blood lust instantly disappeared to prevent the liquid from getting to me. Knowing this, I remained calm, and I kept trying to throw spears at it, knowing that it couldn't make a move while dodging, so I started thinking. The patterns were the same, very predictable, so I took a shot and fired where I thought it would next fly to. Boom, a dead bird. But wait, it was slowly turning back into an egg. I quickly ran to get a feather and started running to the exit.

Chapter 3 : Cave of Dark Matter

Now running and the Phoenix back again, revived from the dead, coming towards me with every passing second, I used my clones to fend off the Phoenix to give me time. So close but so far from the exit, I ran, making clones and using them to fend off against the Phoenix. I made it, then I looked back at the Phoenix. Again, the same look, just like the minotaur, saying with its face, " You were lucky."

Now returning with the feather in my hand, I placed it on the headstone slot, and another part of the door was opened slightly. I entered the last door, the last item needed, and this time it was the black orb.

Chapter 4 : Weird Accomplishment

Walking through a hallway, green water flows through the walls, with big mutated fish in the water. Amazed, all I could describe what I was seeing. I stepped inside the water, and a big black horse that was somehow able to swim transformed into the Minotaur. Now I knew my journey was going to be put to an end, I didn't know how to swim, the Minotaur was coming closer with one of its axes going to slice me open, and it did. Pain, blood, I knew this was my fate. Slowly dying away, the last thing I saw was the black liquid trying to enter my body and dragging me away.

Suddenly, I woke up, not in the same place, but in a new one. What stood in front of me were the eggs, the eggs I've been looking for. Trying to withstand the pain and what was happening and how I was alive, I went forward into the lake of dark matter, knowing it could corrupt my very soul. I touched the shell of the egg. Blasting me away, to a wall to break my impact. A black liquid shark is there to help me up.

“Hello, master, “ said the corrupted fishy.

Chapter 4 : A Nightmare Begins

Exiting the cave, with the shark out of the egg, awaiting my orders, apparently, I asked it to take me home. It started mutating, changing to a black liquid Phoenix, the one similar to what I had battled. I sat on its back, and it started flying back to Albus. In space, looking back at the planet I was on, nearly dying there, it was not worth going. So I tried to teleport back home with the shark into a Phoenix.

“Bro, I could’ve just teleported home,” I yelled. Suddenly, I was back home, on planet Albus, due to my teleportation.

“Why did you waste time on even trying to get me, master, if you can teleport back to your home planet?” The corrupted fishy.

“My bad, I didn’t know I could,” I said.

“Wait, what should I call you, master formally?” Asked Corrupted fishy.

“Тарган дээрэмчин.” I said.

“Wait, you mean thug, or robber?” Asked fishy.

“What do you mean?” I asked.

“Like, because Тарган дээрэмчин means fat thug or fat robber, which would you want to be named?” Fishy asked.

“Bruh, that’s what they named me, and I’m not fat, okay, just say my name as thug,” I said.

“Okay,” Fishy replied.

Now confused about why I got the fish, I relaxed and slept between a broken tree while the new being with me. Waking up instantly, because I knew what needed to be done, I headed back to the Trump State Empire. I needed a powerful weapon, and the weapon of my choosing was my corrupted fishy.

I stormed in then, sizing, destroying houses and buildings, freeing animals that would join my cause. Seeing my shark aura farming on the top of the state empire. But then I saw a wave shock shake the ground, in the distance I could see a mysterious purple aura with massive thunder and lightning starting to come towards my planet. Far in space, the Nightmare was coming.