

CERTIFIED DREAMVALE

THE FALLEN HAVE RETURNED

A DREAMVALE STORY BY WYATT BLAKE

Name: Discus

Age: 17 in human years, 1,700 in fairy years.

Species: Fairy

Gender: Male

Home Planet: The Havens

Personality Traits

- On edge
- Heroic
- Willingful
- Funny

Abilities

- Flight
- Telekinesis
- Magic cast on the things I imagine
- Magic pillow with mind of its own

Moral Alignment

Neutral Good

Dream(s)

To bring peace to the Havens

Fear(s)

Heights

Backstory: Everything was peaceful In the Havens, Until, the fallen angels arrived. I have a brother named Disk Rabid, Di-Bid for short he was a bully at times but when he turned 15 he vanished. Shortly after the Kingdom of fairies fell, Everyone fled and set up an encampment 80 miles away. Years later when I turned 17 I thought I could take on the Fallen angels, so I went to the castle and got annihilated. Just before I got killed I blacked out..

The Havens

Horroborus

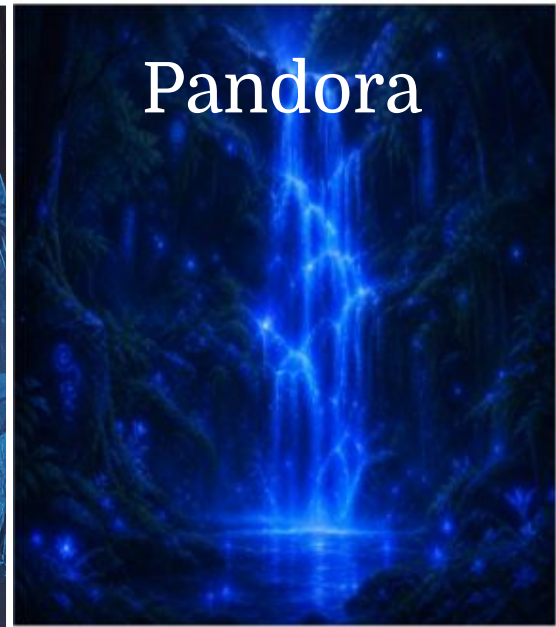

Orblirite

Coordinates (x, y)	17,000 20,000	Government Type	Was monarchy now authoritarian.
Population	50,000,000	Intergalactic Disposition	Was neutral now evil
Terrain	Hilly, giant tree forests, sky islands, vast huge cave systems	Primary Race(s)	Fallen angels, Fairies, Gnomes.
Climate	Constantly 60-80 Degrees fahrenheit	Primary Resource/ Technology	Orblirite, is a Purplish ore found way underground that is used to make weapons and armour of war. When someone finds orblirite and makes it into a weapon the weapon gains special properties that connect with the wielders heart. When its fused with armour it increases the wearers magical abilities. Every time when a fairy turns 1,000 they get a choice between a weapon or armour.
Size	0.75
Planetary Wildlife	The Horroborus is a mythical creature, it is a flying fish catfish that lives in the sky. Horroborus or Borus for short is 65 ft long. There is only one Borus on our planet so if someone hurts it, there will be no more Boruses.	Description	The Havens was a peaceful place where warriors would come to gain the abilities of the orblirite. Well until the Fallen angels came from the sky temples. The fallen angels waged war on the fairy's to take over the above ground of the planet, most fairies fled underground to the caves of the peaceful gnome miners, others ran just like my brother.. Some of us even started mining so we can take back our home.

Sapphire Matter

Pandora

Saphire falls
Druvanas

Dark matter

Origin Story: During the time I could go to other universes, I went to some of the ones near me and I found dark matter and a sapphire crystal. I put them both in my bag and when I got home I noticed that they fused together. I began to research into it and it turns out I can throw it like any ball.

Appearance: The Sapphire matter is this small looking bright blue fiery looking ball that it hot to old but can be thrown like a baseball.

● Sapphire Spray

It runs out if you hold the ball with two hands and hold it out u can use some magic and it will spray out sapphire that can make things more wealthy. It also can make things go on fire, and burn up.

◆ Chuck

You throw the ball and if it hits a target or it senses a target nearby it will explode into a 5 ft diameter and it was cause sapphire pieces to home onto the target.

★ Heal burst

I giant explosion implodes from the ball and it heals peoples wounds from inside and out. It also gives a buff to the people affected and gives them more energy.

guacamole

Age: Newly Born

Species: Mole

Gender: Male

Home Planet: The Havens

How we Met

After my adventure I went back to the underground gnome village. When I arrived their leader Merlock showed me the rest of their village. Along the way we took the mole highway. The highway was the way

Ability #1: Sniff

Guacamole can sniff the area for valuable resources and is able to find the most direct path to them. When he finds valuable items he is able to alert his companion of its location.

Ability #2: Earth manipulation

All moles who live in the gnome village are able to move the earth around them as they please. They can also use vibrations to sense their surroundings.

Chapter One: Before the angels fell

I woke up from the weird dream I just had. There I am lying on the cold, rigid rocklike floor, I'm surrounded by darkness. My Magical Power is hurting me. Everything just aches like I'm surrounded by lava. I don't feel well, like there's a dark presence watching over me, but I don't know who, though. I don't really remember much of anything, really. I'll just start from the very beginning. I'm Discus, who hails from "The Havens." I'm a fairy who's the middle child in my family, even though I look the youngest. Not to mention I'm 1,700. I have a younger sister named Disky. She's a warm-hearted kid, roughly 1,348. Too bad I didn't see her much after dad left with her.

Yeah, I should have probably mentioned that after I turned 692, my parents got a divorce, and my dad left. My older brother, who's a total show off, is named Disk Rabid, or as my mother would make fun of me for, Di-Bid. I used to call him that when I was way younger. Why did Disk-rabid have to leave... Anyways, my mother is a kind person who cares for my good-for-nothing brother and me.

If only I could see her again cause the pain throughout my body hurts so bad it seems I'm dying from the inside. The cold, hard floor is so anguish, if only my magical pillow were here, it would just fly me away. Guess I just have to deal with it, huh? Thank god my brother isn't here to clown on me like he always does...

I remember we used to have a king. I actually talked to him a couple of times, until the Fallen angels arrived and took him. I don't really remember the fallen angels. All I thought they were was a story kids would be told to behave better; everyone thought that was what it was, until they came from the sky temples and wreaked havoc all over the Fairy kingdom. To think that the king knew of the old tales of the Fallen angels and did nothing to prepare, but no "fairy kingdom is peaceful," he'd say to me in an arrogant tone, well, look who's arrogant now, King Huleo.

Chapter One: Before the angels fell

Man, even to think that this all started cause my brother went and did something he wasn't supposed to do... Back then, when I was growing up in school, I was told many old folk tales that "weren't true." Some of the most famous being "Forest of White and Dreams" or "Fallen angels come again." They are both even intertwined, actually. So the story begins with the "Fallen angels come again," we hear of these fairies who worshiped what they called the angels. It's supposed that the angels would come down from the sky temples that were built on the sky islands and would unite the whole universe and make it peaceful. Ha, what a funny thing that is. But anyway, the story talks about how the fairies finally performed a ritual called the "White Dream" to awaken the fallen angels and let them down. We don't know much about the ritual "White Dream." All we know is that it revived the fallen angels. When the angels first came down, everything was peaceful. Fairies set up churches to pray to them, and they helped out; it was all mutual.

Well, up until someone named Yander stole the idol of the fallen angels, the idol was a golden egg on a golden pedestal. Now we don't know how specifically he stole it; all we know is that he stole it, and the egg hatched. Out of the egg came Horroboborus. Horroboborus is a mythical flying catfish who's the only one of its kind. Only 8 people know of Horroboborus' existence. Me being one of them. After Horroboborus hatched, it escaped, and it was never seen again. The fallen angels were outraged and started to enslave fairies and fight them. That is where the story ended and where "Forest of White and Dreams starts. This happened for thousands of years till the year 273,532. Where the sole fighter, named Blanche, used his magical ability "White Sleep," and it caused all the angels to fall asleep, and they started floating into a forest. They were never seen again. Eventually, the Forest trees and leaves turned white, and that's how the forest of White and Dreams came to be.

Chapter Two: Friend or Foe?

I remember this day like it was just yesterday; the birds were chirping, the wind was soft like a pillow, and back then, my parents weren't divorced. Every once in a while, if I need to be happy, I think of this day in age because back then, everything was so peaceful in the Fairy Kingdom.

This all started on a Tuesday afternoon when I was at school, it was 30 mins till the second-to-last bell rang, it was so boring. Tick tick tick. We were learning about the history of the Dreamvale Universe, which was boring. I didn't really give the teacher much attention. His name was IXm, I think? Meh, it doesn't really matter. Ring-a-ding-ding! I wake up with a sudden motion!

"Oh, it's just the bell," I say to my brother.

"Yeah, nothing to get excited for, we still have music class," he says while he smacks the back of my head.

"Ow! What did you do that for? And ugh, music class is the worst."

Music class was particularly bad this time of year because we had to dance to songs we made. Yeah, it was pretty bad.

As Di-bid and I walked to class, I realized that he had all his stuff in his hands, and I could get him back for smacking the back of my head earlier. I walk up to him as we are next to the side doors that lead to the forest. BLAM! All his stuff gets thrown to the floor as he stumbles back.

"HEY!"

I ran out those doors so fast it was faster than the famed Horroborus. He chases after me, yelling loudly. I ran into the forest cause I knew he wouldn't follow me. Sure enough, after running for a good five minutes, I didn't spot him, so I started to stroll down the gravelly path.

Chapter Two: Friend or Foe?

After a short while, I got lost and the sun started to set. I was freaking out! It got dark so fast. I started walking back in the direction I came from. Along the way, I heard a shuffle of leaves behind me. I looked back very slowly, and I saw this weird creature, which looked like a pillow?

This wasn't any ordinary pillow; it started to shape-shift into many creatures! I stared in astonishment as I saw it shapeshift into a rabbit! This was very fascinating! I walk up to it with some of my lunch from school in my hands as a kind of offering. The Rabbit took it, and it started talking in some weird language that I couldn't understand.

Eventually, I told them I would come back tomorrow with a kind of book of words so I could maybe understand it.

I then told the thing that I didn't know my way back home, and it transformed back into the pillow. Then it came from below me, and I was shocked because it started flying upwards with me, and it flew me all the way back to my home! When it got me back home, it flew all the way back into the forest.

I then knew what was coming, the onslaught from my parents, blabbing about where I was and what I was doing. I then opened the door, and as I predicted, the onslaught started... Later, after I went to bed, for some reason, I could shake the feeling in my head, there had to be a reason as to why I met that being.

The next morning, I walked to the library because we didn't have school on Wednesday. As I walked, I saw the librarian. She was a sweet old lady named Linda. She welcomed me, and I said hi. I walked straight to the dictionary, and I couldn't find anything about what that thing was saying.

Chapter Three: A New Species

I wake up, and my vision is blurry. I don't know where I am. Maybe underground cause grey-like colors surround me? I'm hearing voices all around me,

"He's waking up!"

"Get merlock quick!"

As my vision begins to unblur, I see a small, like creature with a big nose and a pointy hat covering its eyes. The bed I'm on is also very small. As I see the thing in front of me, it scurries away with its tiny feet. After a second or too another small thing came, but instead it had a different colored hat.

After it came, I soon became surrounded by many of these creatures; there were so many of them that I couldn't understand anything they were saying. Eventually, this one was slightly taller than the rest, and as he walked, he said,

"SILENCE!!"

Then he walked to the side of the bed, and he stood on the staircase that led up to it.

"Who are you and what are you?"

"Uhh, I could be asking the same question."

"Answer me now, human."

"First off, I'm a fairy, not a human, and second, where am I?"

"You are in Gnomus Explodus, A Peaceful mining village of the gnomes."

"There are no gnomes in The Havens," I said in an arrogant voice.

"You're wrong, it's just that all the gnomes have lived underground ever since the fallen angels came all those many years ago."

"I've never heard of gnomes living in The Havens."

"Well, we're real and alive."

Chapter Three: A New Species

What is your name?"

"The names Merlock, leader of the gnomes. What's your name?"

"I'm Discus."

"Well, Discus, it looks like your time has come."

"What??"

"As the Leader of the gnomes, I see visions of the distant future. You are destined to save The Havens and restore peace."

"Restore peace from what?"

"The Fallen Angels."

"Fallen angels? They were erased all those years ago."

"Wrong, do you remember what you saw when we took you when you first entered the forest?"

"Firstly, was it you who took me? Also, yes, they were dark, shadowy figures with weapons, and they had wings that looked like their skin."

"Yes, those were the fallen angels. Your brother Disk-Rabid messed up and somehow awakened a portal for more fallen angels to come."

"What do you mean, more fallen angels? Also, what did my brother even do?"

"There were fallen angels who lived in the Havens, after they were first sealed, your brother actually left to work for the fairy king to rid this world of the fallen."

"Whoa, whoa, whoa, wait, I'm so confused, what do you mean he worked with the fairy king?"

"I'll explain more eventually. First off, you need a weapon and armor before you go and save the world."

"How am I supposed to get a weapon and armor?"

"Follow me."

Chapter Three: A New Species

I get up out of the bed I was lying in, and I start walking behind Merlock. As we were walking, I had to stay ducked due to how tiny the underground system was. Eventually, as we were walking, I noticed these amethyst-looking shards that were black to purple, and they were even glowing.

“What are those?” I said, pointing at the shard.

“That is what we like to call Orblirite. (Orb-li-rite) Orblirite is a magical ore found deep underground that us gnomes mine. We use it to make weapons and armor. When we make the items, they give us special abilities that connect with the user's heart.”

“Whoa, actually?!?”

He didn't answer my last question and just kept walking. As we walked for a very long time, he eventually came to a stop.

“Now you must make your own weapon and armor.”

“What? I barely even know how to sew a hat!”

“Your heart will guide you as it did with others before you.”

“Uh, okay.”

“I must go now, be wise.”

There I was just standing there, I didn't know how to make a weapon! Guess I'll just have to see what I can make.

As I start looking around, I see some gnomes carrying some of the orblirite the gnome king was talking about.

“Hey! You think I could have some?”

“Sure slick.”

“Thanks, very much appreciated!”

Chapter Three: A New Species

After I grabbed about 5 or so of them, I found a mold for a sword. Then out of nowhere, I blacked out.

As I was waking up, my body felt so heavy, and it seemed as though my hands were full. I looked down, and I saw the coolest, sickest sword in my hand! And I saw I had this bright blue armour that was creating fire! As I was looking at myself, the gnome king stepped in.

“Ahh, I see, you made some sick armor, kid. And don’t get me started with that amazing sword!”

“Merlock, how is this possible?!?”

“Your heart guided you. It even seems you also went to different planets, cause that bright blue ball that has fire is omega cool!” Now, traveler, that you have everything you need, this is where we must part ways.”

“What I like barely got to know you!?”

“Sadly, you must go save the planet, cause you were asleep for 300 years.” As he said that, I got magically pushed up into this clear tube, and it magically brought me up to the surface.

Chapter Four: A Hero Arrives

Supposedly, from what Merlock said, it's been 3,000 years since I've been up here. Everything looks so much different; you could say it's because I'm on a mountain, but everything is red and dark. Everything used to be all bright and colourful, but now it's dull and gloomy. What have the fallen angels done?

I take a look down the cliff, I must be 10,000 feet up! So I hug the wall and look all around me, then I see a path to the right of me that looks like it leads downwards. I hug the wall while I start moving to the right. As I'm walking, randomly part of the mountain falls off, and it was right next to me! I start sprinting downwards, not looking back, then clip* I trip on a rock that was on the path, and I'm falling..

"AHHHHH!!"

Everything is in slow motion, and I start to reflect,

"Am I really gonna die after Merlock said I was going to save the world? I still want to live; I have so much I still want to do, and much more that I have to do. Like saving my planet and finding my brother and mother. Guess this is the end."

I have my eyes open, and I start looking around me. I see many things, like rocks falling with me, because I assume the mountain started collapsing. I hear a dull thunk sound, and I'm out cold.

I wake up, I can't really see much of anything, my vision is very blurry, and I can only feel things. There I am lying on the cold, ridged Iron like floor, I'm surrounded by darkness. Then my vision clears, I'm in a cage that's hanging above lava, my sword and my armour are gone, and so is my sapphire matter.

I look around, and I see that the magical pillow is in the other cage!

"Hey Pillow!"

it looks up, and it zips towards the end of the cage and starts doing hand signals at me.

"What? I don't understand!"

I then see it chattering towards the corner. In the corner, there was a fallen angel with dark wings and a spear!

"What are you trying to tell me?!?"

Chapter Four: A Hero Arrives

The pillow continued to gesture towards the corner, then I saw it, a crank! It could let down our cages! But how? I continue to look around the room, and I see that they have my sword in the opposite corner! But it was surrounded by lava on all four sides. Guess it's hopeless.

Days passed, we'd get food occasionally, and we even got a journal so that they could "Learn" about us. The cages were small, so it was really uncomfortable.

Eventually, I started to recognise a pattern: the guard that was in charge of us would always fall asleep at 3:00 PM, and they would sleep against the crank. I figured if I managed to get the angel to move slightly closer to the crank, its body weight would let us down! The next day, when we got our food and journal at 12:00, I decided I would act as if I would write in it, but I'd hold on to it, and I could use it to shift the guard's body weight.

3:00 PM. Now's the time. Like clockwork, the guard fell asleep, and it was go time. I explained everything I had thought over the past couple of days and told the pillow, and it looked like it was on board! Now, because I was closest, I had to use my aim and not miss. I threw it.

"Oh SHOOT"

I threw it slightly too far right. I was gonna fall and.. dink FWOOSH my cage go barreling downwards and it smacks the floor. "OW!"

I get up with a killer headache, but I have to hurry up and bring the pillow down before anyone who might have heard the crash comes. I walked over to the corner with the crank, and right when I was about to flick it, the guard woke up and grabbed me!

"What are you doing out of your cell!?"

"Get off of me!"

He starts winding up his fist for a punch, but I'm helpless.. I've never fought anyone before. I look back towards my sword and I start reaching for it. I have no idea why, but I just know I'm gonna need it if I want to defeat this foe. I then continued to grab for it, but right when I was about to get hit across the face, the sword started moving. I start moving my hands around, and it starts to replicate it. This is crazy, I whip it around real fast and slice the angel in two!

"cough how'd you do that?"

the angel says as black comes out of its mouth. I go towards the crank and start letting the pillow down.

"Come on, let's go confront the leader and restore the world."

Chapter Five: A Meeting With The Man himself

Nick Nick Nick. My feet sound as I'm running through the massive hallways, trying to stop this evil doer. The ground has a red carpet like any other one you'd find inside a palace. The walls are huge, and I can barely see the ceiling due to how tall it is. I start running into doors and start opening them. Creeeeaaak each sound would make as I'd open it. There was this special door after a lot of running. It had this weird golden crest on it; it was massive, too. I open the door.

My Brother...

"Disk-Rabid, what are you doing here?!?"

"Must kill."

"What?!? Disk, what are you talking about?"

He then latches onto me and starts choking me out.

"What are you doing!"

"The leader told me to kill."

"What leader?!?"

"Supreme leader Astroloth."

I take a look at him, and he seems dark. His eyes are soulless and bright red. His wings turned dark as if he turned into a fallen angel...

He lunges at me with his weapon in hand. I jump out of the way and bring my sword out and hit him. No damage he has or blight armour on, I don't know what to do...

"Kill all fairies."

I take a thought back and remember. When I was falling, my armour didn't save me; that could have been because I hadn't unlocked my power yet, but heights are my worst fear, so maybe, just maybe, I have to make him face his worst fear...

"Hey, Disk, come at me."

"Kill."

I start jumping around and weaving all of his attacks because I don't want to hurt him, but he must create an opening so I can give him his fear, losing a winning fight.

"HAHA, you don't know how to fight, fairy."

Chapter Five: A Meeting With The Man himself

“Yea your right, Disk. I’m just a loser who can’t fight, so you’d win, right?”

He comes swinging at me with his full force, and I keep on weaving his attacks. Every once in a while, I’d get hit, so he thought he’d win. Then, when he least suspects it. THWACK My sword goes barreling from behind and hits him in the back. THUD he comes falling in a crash, and it looks like my thought was right because his armour started to lose some of its power.

Crap, I just realized he’s out cold. What am I supposed to do? I checked inside my bag and found the blue orb, the sapphire matter, I think Merlock called it. I start aiming it at him, and at first, the fire just comes out. I then throw it at him, and that only seems not to affect him. My last-ditch effort was to hold it with one hand and lift it.

Swoosh A giant blue explosion happens, it doesn't hurt, in fact, it looks like it’s corroding the evil residue that was on my brother.

Minutes go by, and I realize this wasn’t even the main event, I still have to put an end to Astroloth.

“Hey pillow, you watch my brother, I’m gonna go to the main ballroom.

I start booking it down the hall, just eager to make it to the giant ballroom. I also realized that this was the king's palace, but redone so that it would be dark and gloomy. I’ve been in the king's castle before, so I knew exactly where I was going.

Up the stairs, down the hall, take a right, then to the left, and run forward. Then blam the ballroom. Now it was just a matter of taking that path.

If only I had something to ride on, it would make it happen. Agh, one could imagine.

POOF I take a look around me because of the noise I just heard, and it turns out a magical bird just popped out of nowhere!

“Can you take me to the ballroom!?!”

“Squawk!”

So I jumped on, and it started magically flying all the way to the ballroom! Along the way, I was thinking about how this even happened. Could it have been sheer luck? No, it had to be something else. Maybe it was me saying imagine?

Chapter Five: A Meeting With The Man himself

"I imagine a piece of steak will drop in my hands."

POOF A plate drops in my hand, and it has a piece of medium steak on it. Guess I had powers using my imagination! This would be really helpful in the fight against Astroloth.

As I was thinking about all of this, the bird flew all the way to the ballroom, and eventually, we made it. I take a step off the bird.

"Thanks, I really appreciate it."

"Squak"

I take a step into the room, and there I see the thing. The golden egg artifact, which the hero had stolen from them all those years ago.

How do they have it? I'll just take it so that they can't use it for evil.

I go to grab the thing, and right when I'm about to put my hands on it, the chair in the room turns, and there I see him. Astroloth.

"Well, hello, Discus. I've known about you coming here."

"Yeah, and I'm going to defeat you and take my homeland"

He gives me a blank look, and he comes flying at me with full force, and swings as hard as he can. I wasn't ready for it, so I got cut across the stomach.

Cough as blood comes from my mouth

"Huh, I thought you'd be stronger than this. Guess I was wrong."

"Cough Yeah, you just haven't seen it yet."

We then start clashing swords, and the crazy thing about this weapon is that it's a part of him. His hand has a sword at the end of it, and he's strong too.

Clank Clank Clank Our swords continuously hit one another. The only bad thing is that every so often, he's able to hit me, and due to how hard he swings, it hurts really badly. "Guess my vision of you was way off, you're just a mere fairy. A puny one at that."

"Yeah, I just haven-"

He comes flying at me and swings toward my stomach, and it feels like he cut me in half...

I'm on the floor, it feels off like cushy, I can't believe I'm going to fail.

Chapter Five: A Meeting With The Man himself

Guess this is where my story ends...

Just then, I heard the main door open. I took a look up towards the door, my vision blurry, and there I saw them, Disk-Rabid and the pillow.

"Oh, good, Disk-Rabid. You've come just in time to watch me kill your brother."

"Oh, you've got it all wrong, you see, we're all gonna see you being killed."

"What? Have you been unbranwa-"

I then saw my chance cause as he was talking, I didn't notice a weapon. So I went for it and cut him across the neck. SHWING THUD

I did it. I actually beat him. He's on the floor lying there.

"I did it..."

"We did it."

"Yeah, we did, kinda anticlimactic, huh?"

CRICH CRICH Just then, a huge rubble fell onto the fallen angles and covered him

"OGUGHHHPUGHG."

"Discus what's that!" He said while pointing at a pile of rocks that turned dark purple with a black aura around them.

"How am I supposed to know?!?"

"What happened to being the chosen hero?!?"

"Just because I'm the chosen hero doesn't mean I know everything!"

"Maybe you should know!"

Just then, the rocks seemed to have made a monster-like creature, and it started talking.

"HEHEHE! YOU THOUGHT U KILLED ME, BUT THAT WAS NOT EVEN MY TRUE FORM!"

"DISK-RABID RUN! I'LL STOP HIM!"

"I CAN'T JUST LEAVE YOU HERE!"

"GO!"

I then push him back with my telekinetic powers and shut the door.

Chapter Five: A Meeting With The Man himself

The monster then came straight at me! And tries to slice my rib! I successfully dodge the attack and swing at him. Miss! I can't fight him like this; I have to do something!

While thinking he comes to attack, but he barely misses!

"COME AND LET ME KILL YOU DISCUS!"

I don't respond, I run to the idol at the center of the room! I grab it, and I pass out...

(In head)

I don't know what's happening. I'm knocked out cold. I can't even feel my own body right now. Hopefully, my armour is kicking in and is controlling me. I'm starting to feel my body call out to me. I can't respond. I'm stuck here as if I'm under a spell. Guess all I can do is imagine things and hope it works even though I'm not controlling my body...

"BLANCHE!" I called out. Then I fell through some kind of portal. My brain is somehow in a different world. It's filled with rumble and destruction. Then I see a skeleton.

"Skeleton! Help me!"

The Skeleton then just started swinging at me! I weave his attacks. I don't have my sword or armor. I have to use my fists.

We fight many times. Over and over, I lose constantly. He keeps on telling me I have to improve. Each time I ask for what.

Eventually, I started to notice a pattern. He's left-handed, so it's hard to tell how he's going to act. I then started matching his left-handedness. It's really hard, but after many, many battles, I get the hang of it.

He swings. I uppercut him right in the jaw. He's on the floor, a pile of bones.

"You've finally beaten me."

"What now?"

"Go defeat Astroloth."

"How? I'm too weak."

"If you can defeat the person who took him down all those years ago, you can do anything."

"WHAT?!? YOU'RE BLANCHE"

Chapter Six: The End of A Forever Battle

The pile of bones then starts to disarray. Was that really Blanche? Whatever, I can't be thinking of that right now. I need to stop Astroloth.

My body is calling out to me, and now I'm ready. My body feels like it's going inside out. As if I'm also on a roller coaster. Rabid succession movement.

My vision begins to unblur. I can see that I'm on the ground surrounded by rubble. What happened? I see that Astroloth is near my feet and is looking down at me. There's a ringing in my ear as if I've gone deaf. Except I'm not, I'm beginning to hear him speak.

"You really are just a weak fairy, huh?"

I reach for my bag, but it's gone. I look around and see the bag with the sapphire matter rolling outside it. I reach my hand out and lightly guide it towards me. I'm doing this because it can heal me like it did my brother.

Maybe the training did work. It's gliding its way towards me, and I barely have any magical power left. Finally, it reaches me, and Astroloth notices...

"Well, well, what do we have here? You're not dead, and in fact you're trying to heal yourself. Pathetic."

"Yeah.. except I will heal myself."

I aim the matter upwards and channel all the magic I have left...

It worked, the orb healed me to full health and restored my magic. Astroloth is going down.

I get up on my feet and punch him right in the stomach. He just stands there unfazed. It's worthless. I can't make it through his hard exterior. What if I get the inside of him? I see there is a dark purple orb floating inside him. What if that's his weak spot? There's only one way to find out.

"I imagine the great horrobustus will come and help me with this battle."

"Oh, please, that's not going to work, fairy boy."

Then out the window I saw something flying...

"PILLOW?!? WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?"

The pillow then magically transformed into Horrobustus. How.

"Discus. I've been bored this whole time. All those years ago, the fallen angels cursed me as a pillow to lounge on. I knew you could undo the spell with your capable abilities. That's why I've been following you around."

"This is crazy!"

Chapter Six: The End of A Forever Battle

“DAMN YOU, HORROBORUS!”

“Discus now go. I can't help, I know you must win this by yourself.”

Now I see my chance, I have my sword, and I can pierce his heart.

SHRIT the orb.. It's on my sword, stuck on it in fact.

“How's that Astro-SLOTH? You couldn't see me coming.”

“Discus the fight isn't over. Return to your mind. The orb is infiltrating your body.”

“Okay, I won't let you down.”

I close my eyes and let go of my body. I start falling, and then I hit the floor. I look around, and I see the orb. How am I supposed to discard it? I'll just poke at it and see what will happen.

Just then, a dark figure arises.

“Hey, Astro-Sloth, that you?”

“I'M GOING TO KILL YOU!!!”

Just then, out of the corner of my eye, I see him in the flesh. Blanche.

“You're not going to do anything to Discus, old friend.”

“YOU, I'M GOING TO KILL YOU TOO.”

We all start to fight and have an amazing duel of sword swings, armor blocks, and close calls. It seems almost neck and neck. Except for one thing, both Blanche and I know that he isn't using all his power. He's got a trick up his sleeve for sure.

“IS THAT ALL YOU CAN DO! HAHAAH. SUPREME WAVE!”

Then a power wave comes from below both of our feet and deals heavy damage to us.

“Blanche, we can't beat this guy.”

“Lucky for us, we also have a trick up our sleeve.”

“What trick???”

“You're going to have to trust me. Say “I summon upon thee people of white!”

“I summon upon thee, people of white?”

“LOUDER AND WITH MORE SPUNK.”

“I SUMMON UPON THEE PEOPLE OF WHITE!!!”

Loud marching was soon heard in the distance. It could be anything really. Then I see them. More skeletons that look just like how Blanche looks.

“Who are these guys?!?”

Chapter Six: The End of A Forever Battle

“Our ancestors”

“OUR ANCESTORS?!?!”

“Haven't you noticed how you don't look like your family at all? We are all related and took down the fallen angel king at one point.”

“THIS IS CRAZY RIGHT NOW!”

“Keep your head in the game, Discus. Now you must command all of us.”

“DAMN YOU ALL. HOW DARE YOU COME AND DEFEAT ME?”

“ATTACK THE ORB!”

“RAHHH,” they all said in unison.

I woke up. No, I was about to defeat him! How can it end like this!

“Disk-Rabid, where are you!”

“I'm right here, dude. You did it, you won, that orb is destroyed.”

“Really?”

I went into my mind, and I couldn't summon Blanche anymore.

I don't know if he was telling the truth about the ancestor thing, but at least the nightmare is over.

“Discus, how about we go home?”

“Yeah.. sure.”

We start walking out of the castle, and I can't seem to shake the feeling that we are being followed. I looked around, and I saw a baby Horroborus.

“Borus, are you coming?”

“Yeah, too bad I'm tiny now. That's what happens every time the fallen angel king gets defeated. But now it feels like I have a rock lifted off my shoulders.”

“Come on, guys, let's go home!”

Over the next couple of years, people rebuilt their lives, and everything went peacefully. Borus even said that he started aging, which meant the king wouldn't come back. I still have many unanswered questions about everything. Gnomes have even joined society again. I even went to meet my sister. When I got home, I was hailed a hero. And everything got better in the Havens. I still wonder what type of things happened with my ancestors and why they never stopped Astro-sloth for good.

Maybe I might be able to figure it out later, but for now I'm taking a break from being the hero.